

Hugh R. Wilson to Be U. S. High Commissioner to League of Nations

WASHINGTON—The United States has come a long way from the isolationist days when the revolt against Woodrow Wilson slammed the door shut in the face of the League of Nations.

Latest gesture toward Geneva is the State Department's secret decision to appoint Hugh R. Wilson as "High Commissioner to the League of Nations."

This is a move engineered by the career men, in part by League supporters in the State Department. They have felt for some time that the United States needed semi-official representation at Geneva. To date this representation has been partly by Wilson, who was American Minister to Switzerland but lived at Bern; partly by Prentiss Gilbert, Consul-General in Geneva.

Between these two, however, there was open, bitter rivalry. Wilson is suave, punctilious, able, son of Chicago's famous shirt-maker, has been in diplomacy almost ever since he went to school in Paris. Gilbert is genial, rough-and-ready, son of an army officer, once managed the Rochester (N. Y.) Fair, is not a career diplomat.

Wilson has now won the battle. Gilbert will leave Geneva.

Retrospection

Naval Secretary Claude Swanson, basking in the vacation sunshine on the porch at Hoover's Rapidan camp, was reminiscing with an old political enemy. The Secretary has a rare sense of humor, especially about himself.

"Well," he said, "it's a long, long road from pulling a mile cord behind a plow to sitting in the chair of Secretary to the Navy."

"Yes, Claude," agreed the crowd. "It sure is. It's a long, long road." Swanson seemed to enjoy thinking about it. He repeated: "It took years and years to travel it, but here I am. And I'm glad I'm here. I don't want to go back."

The crowd eyed him with a mischievous twinkle.

"Well, Claude," he observed, "there's one thing you can be thankful for. The road you took to get here was so darned winding, you'll never be able to find your way back again."

And the genial Swanson laughed so hard he adopted this as his favorite story on himself.

Housing Worries

The Housing Administration, now slowly swinging into action, is eyed anxiously in inner Administration circles. More than one of the President's counselors has serious private doubts whether the project will be an appreciable factor in stimulating industry, eliminating unemployment.

These fears they base on two grounds: 1. Home owners—most of them in none too favorable economic condition after four years of depression—will be extremely skittish about going further into debt for renovations and modernization.

2. Banks, still suffering from depression shell-shock, probably will continue to keep a tight grip on their money bags, despite the government's 20 per cent guarantee on all housing loans. James A. Moffett, dapper Housing Administrator, and his large staff of publicity shock-troops, ebulliently proclaim their confidence in being able to break down the "sales resistance" of both bankers and home owners.

But privately they admit it is a big gamble. This is exactly what the inner-circle doubters and the openly critical Progressives in Congress complain about. They hold the time is long past when such risky chances can be safely taken with the country's recovery requirements; that the underlying economic structure is desperately in need of solid substance and not the uncertain flurries of "shots in the arm."

Instead of trying to inveigle economically insecure property-

STUDYING WINTER

Anxiety Ends as Radio Contact Made

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—In spite of his weakened condition Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd probably will not return to Little America with the tractor party which finally reached his lonely outpost 123 miles south, it was said today at the offices of Mackay radio which has been handling all messages to the Byrd expedition.

The tractor train, it is understood at the Mackay headquarters, carried supplies for Admiral Byrd to prolong his stay at the outpost observing the climatic phenomena of an Antarctic winter, which have included temperatures of 80 below zero.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctic, Aug. 13.—Thin and weak after his long vigil of four and a half months of Antarctic winter near the south pole, Admiral Byrd was reached at last by the tractor party on its third attempt to relieve him.

SITTING ON SHACK

He was found sitting on top of his shack sunk in the drifted snow. "Hello, fellows," he said, "come on down and get warm. I have some hot soup for you."

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, who led the tractor expedition, reported by radio telegraph to the base camp here at Little America, "Admiral Byrd is quite weak. But he will be all right in a minute."

The message was a cheering one for now it can be known that

Police Court

The toll of violators in Mayor W. B. Cady's police court reached seven over the week-end, one of the busiest dockets the mayor has faced for some time.

All of the offenses involved intoxication charges. Arch Greeno, of Stoutsville, arrested Sunday evening for intoxication and disorderly conduct was the only violator to receive a trip to jail. He was fined $15 and costs and committed to the county jail when he pleaded guilty.

Harry Ratcliff, Portsmouth, arrested on a similar charge, promised to pay a fine of $5 and costs. This week while Mary George, S. Scioto-st., also received a suspension of her $10 fine for disorderly conduct. Both were arrested Sunday.

Leonard Gilmore, of Darbyville, and Roy Thompson, this city, arrested separately on intoxication charges, failed to appear for hearings Monday and their $5 bonds were forfeited.

Myron Van Riper, E. Mill-st., also had his $5 fine suspended by the mayor after he pleaded guilty to intoxication.

Harp Van Riper, Watt-st., dropped $2 into the city coffers Sunday evening after he was haled into police court for driving his automobile with one light.

TWO MORE CIRCUS PEOPLE VICTIMS

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—Deaths of two more circus employees from typhoid fever were recorded today in Harper hospital here where 53 other "big tent" workers are fighting the ravages of the disease. Two deaths had been reported earlier.

The latest victims were Kent Lewis, 27, of Detroit, a ticket seller, and George Craig, 28, of Shreveport, La., member of the train crew.

All the patients are employees of the Ringling brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus which played here several weeks ago.

CHAS. SAWYER, DONAHEY HOLD 'STRAW' LEADS

Former Heads Davey Here By Only 46; Vic's Margin 351 Over White.

Lieutenant Governor Charles Sawyer, of Cincinnati, and former Governor Vic Donahey, of Columbus, Democratic candidates for governor and U. S. senator, respectively, who have consistently led in their fields in the straw vote conducted by The Herald, were still ahead as the poll was brought to an end Monday morning.

A total of 921 ballots were cast in the poll which began last Monday afternoon. Business establishments, industrial plants, and residences in this city and the villages of Ashville and Williamsport were visited by The Herald's representatives in the course of the straw vote.

As the poll ended this morning, Mr. Sawyer was leading his nearest opponent, Martin L. Davey, of Kent, by 46 votes, while Mr. Donahey was ahead of Governor George White, his nearest competitor, by a more than four to one vote.

Approximately 200 ballots were cast in the poll taken on the streets here Saturday. In a vote taken in the afternoon, Sawyer and Davey ran neck and neck, the former barely winning out by a 38 to 37 vote.

Clarence J. Brown also forged ahead in the Republican gubernatorial race and as the vote ended, he was leading Daniel E. Morgan.

JESSE T. SWITZER, YORK-ST., IS DEAD

Jesse T. Switzer, aged 73, native of Frankfurt, Ross-co, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Johnson, York-st. Sunday at 4 p. m. of complications after a year's illness.

Mr. Switzer was a retired farmer.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Alice Junk Switzer; Mrs. Ankrum, Mrs. Josie Gulick; this city; George, John and Isa of Cleveland; Mrs. Mildred Becker, Cleveland; and Mrs. Rhoda Thomas, Cleveland; children; Burton Switzer, Robtown; and Mrs. Jennie Graham, Wayne-twp. brother and sister. Twenty-eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren also survive.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the home with Rev. S. C. Elisea officiating with burial in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Mrs. John Strahm, Watt-st., has received word of the sudden death Friday afternoon of her sister, Mrs. Jessie Miller Wernicke, 65, of Chicago. Death was due to heart disease.

The deceased was well-known here having been born and reared in Circleville, a graduate of the Circleville high school and a teacher in the public schools. She remained in this city until her marriage to Fred Wernicke April 2, 1890, when she moved to Chicago where she has since resided.

Her husband preceded her in death.

In late years she has been employed in the Criminal Court building in Chicago.

She leaves besides her sister, one daughter, Winifred, a granddaughter, Betty Pringle and an aunt, Miss Elizabeth Miller of Columbus.

She has been a life long member of the Methodist church, and was also affiliated with the Eastern Star and W. C. T. U. Interment will be in Chicago.

YOUR DUTY: VOTE

(An Editorial)

Tuesday's election presents every Circleville and Pickaway-co voter, man or woman, an opportunity to register his or her sentiments concerning candidates who are seeking district, state or county positions. Advantage should be taken of this right to go to the polls.

Persons who will shape the path to be followed by our state government, who will help or deter the efforts of our noble president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and who will direct the destinies of the county for the next two or four years will be nominated, and their selection warrants careful consideration of every qualified elector. Too many voters ignore the primary but rue their decision when some candidate whom they think not desirable is fortunate enough to win the nomination.

The only way this evil can be stamped out is for every good red-blooded American to go to the polls between 6:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Tuesday and Vote for the persons you think best qualified to administer the business of your government, national, state and local.

G. R. HARMOUNT TAKEN AT 52

Member of Famous Family Show Dies; Leaves Two Brothers, Sister.

George R. Harmount, aged 52, who played the parts of Simon Legree and Marks the lawyer in the Harmount family's famous presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," died Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at his home in Williamsport.

A complication of diseases caused death.

Mr. Harmount with other members of his family helped organize the famous tent show which traveled all over the nation. In the last few years he had been making his home with his brother, Clarence, in Williamsport. Other survivors of the family of seven children are Libbie Peters of New York City, and Denman Harmount of Chillicothe.

The deceased was born Dec. 30, 1881, in Williamsport, a son of Albert L. and Georgietta Mack Harmount.

The funeral will be conducted at the Hill Funeral home Tuesday at 3 p. m. with Rev. W. B. Rose officiating with interment in Spring-lawn cemetery.

PASTOR WINS 'FAITH' TEST

Refuses Medicine After Snake Bite Declaring Christ Would Aid Him.

SYLVIA, N. C., Aug. 13.—All through the Cullowhee mountains persons carried the word today, the word of a divine force claimed more powerful than any medical aid in the world.

Albert Teester, one of their preachers, gave them a vivid display of that power Sunday, and told them he had acted on instruction from Christ himself.

Teester spoke to his flock in front of a mountain cabin, waving in the air an arm badly swollen from a rattlesnake bite, a week ago he had deliberately allowed a reptile to attack him, and declared that he would have no medical aid. Faith, he said, would preserve him.

RECOVERY CERTAIN And after a week of agony, during which his life was despaired of, he had finally recovered.

"Jesus told me to do it," he informed followers Sunday. "I am not doing this for the glory I may get out of it, but so the people all over the world who need the word of God may know it."

"I took up the rattlesnake in the name of Jesus Christ. I have the opinion of experts in very liberal."

Quite a number of questions were asked by interested property owners and all were answered in a satisfactory manner.

BULKLEY FIRES PROBE CHARGE AT GOV. WHITE

Says If White Nominated "Vote Buying" Claim Will Be Aired

GOVERNOR WILLING

Invites Light of Publicity on Efforts

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—Threats of a senatorial investigation if Gov. George White wins the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator in tomorrow's primary election swept out over the state from Cleveland today as voters made ready to go to the polls.

U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, one of the chief supporters of Congressman Charles West, Granville, was understood to be considering asking the senate to scrutinize the Ohio primary if White wins.

In a statement issued in Cleveland the junior Ohio senator accused the governor of "buying the support" of the Cleveland regular Democratic organizations "with highway jobs which will be paid for out of public funds."

CLAIMS VOTES BOUGHT "We cannot have buying of votes wholesale with public money," said Senator Bulkley. Meanwhile, Governor White,

In the other corner of the triangular Democratic senatorial contest is former Gov. Vic Donahey, who having closed his campaign with a rally against both White and West, sat back to await the voting.

Most of the other candidates had bid farewell to the primary hustlings, but Clarence J. Brown, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, delayed ringing down the curtain on his campaign until after a Brown rally in the capital tonight.

SEWAGE BOND SUCCESS SEEN

Huge Meeting at Ashville Believed To Assure Success of Vote, Tuesday.

That the proposed $32,000 bond issue which is intended to finance one of Ashville's federal projects—sanitary sewers, will carry by a safe majority at the election Tuesday is the opinion freely expressed by its supporters.

At a mass meeting presided over by E. W. Seeds, president of the Community Club in the new high school auditorium last Friday night and attended by a fair sized crowd, the question was thoroughly discussed from every angle.

C. A. Niple of the firm of Burgess and Niple, consulting engineers, went over the plan and blue prints and explained in detail the set up of the project, which in the opinion of experts is very liberal.

Seeking $2,500 damages as a result of a fall on July 15, Mrs. Josephine Clarridge, wife of John Clarridge, of Monroe-twp, filed suit in common pleas court Monday against the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. and Charles McKendry, of Mt. Sterling.

The money is claimed as a result of Mrs. Clarridge's fall into an open stairway at the side of the store the A. and P. company operates in Mt. Sterling. Charles Kendry owns the building.

Mrs. Clarridge's petition states that both defendants were negligent in failing to put a protective guard-railing around the open stairway. She has been unable to work since the accident and has suffered several permanent injuries. Mrs. Clarridge related in the petition. She is represented by Charles H. May and Charles Gerhardt.

Answer date for the defendant is Sept. 15.

Parties Ask Names of Two Be Written in

Faced with the task of selecting a number of new state, district and county officials, 6,000 Pickaway-co voters will go to the polls tomorrow to register their choices in one of the most interesting primaries in years.

Board of election officials freely predicted Monday that the total number of votes cast Tuesday will be at least 25 per cent more than the 5,404 total in 1932. Democrats cast 3,531 ballots and Republicans 1,873, two years ago.

Most of the candidates planned to wind up their campaigns tonight at the fish fry and dancing program being held today on the Ben Metzger farm, near the West-

3 COUNTY CONTESTS

While there are three interesting contests on the county ticket, the chief topic of conversation in voters' circles continued to center on the recorder's race in which nine Democratic and two Republican candidates are entered.

It was the belief of most political observers Monday that if one of the Democratic candidates polled a comfortable majority in the city of Circleville, that lucky person might be the nominee. Others, however, quickly pointed out with seven candidates entered from the city, the vote would be split and possibility of a majority for any one of them was slim.

As the time for the opening of the polls rapidly approached, the county Democratic ticket still remained incomplete. Two of the city's youthful attorneys declined to become the party's candidate for prosecuting attorney and in doing so left the field open for Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, Republican, in November.

WRITE IN 2 NAMES

Democratic voters will be urged, however, to write in the name of Dr. C. E. Bowers as the party's candidate for coroner. Dr. Bowers failed to file a nominating petition in June, but expressed his willingness to run if sufficient number of voters recorded his name.

Republican voters have been asked to write in the name of George H. Fickardt for county treasurer. He will oppose the winner of the Democratic Colville-Anderson-Hoffman race.

Harry E. Weill, deputy clerk of the board of elections, expressed belief today that first results of the primary will not be known before 9 p. m. tomorrow. With an unusually heavy vote anticipated, it is expected that approximately two or three hours will be needed by the workers in the county's 38 polling booths.

JORDAN IN APPEAL FOR CONSERVANCY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—A militant appeal for the Muskingum Valley's 1,000,000 people to get behind the government's program for the $35,200,000 conservancy district there, coupled with a warning against attempts at land profiteering, was made here today by Allan Jordan, secretary of the Ohio Valley Water conservation board.

He made his statement simultaneously with the release of detailed plans for the project by the war department engineers who proposed to build 15 dams from 40 to 115 feet high and to create eight large and six small permanent lakes.

SHOWN PLANS
"Wonderful, wonderful," he exclaimed when he was shown the plans by International News Service. "I can not find words glowing enough to praise the sponsors of this project. They're worked hard on it for four years and they now are within sight of their goal. Why, it's simply wonderful."

"It's wonderful too that Ohio should get this project. It's the first of its kind in the country." Jordan pointed out the stipulation in the detailed plans which said "seven villages will either be removed to higher ground or protected from floods by levees." He said that it would be "unfortunate"

ate" if army engineers encountered difficulty because villagers objected to having their homes moved or walled in by dykes. It was at this point that he uttered the warning against land profiteering, recalling that actual start of one phase of the Miami Valley flood control project at Dayton after the 1913 floods was delayed for 70 days because it required that much time to iron out the objections of residents of Osborn, Ohio which was moved to higher ground.

MANY GET WORK

"The people should remember that this project although it may require the removal of their home sites is for the best," Jordan said. "I see that they plan to start actual construction by November 1. That will give work to between 6,000 and 8,000 men for several years. It would be a crime if anything should happen that would delay actual start."

"I can only point out that the government has the right of eminent domain and that it can condemn properties whose owners do not wish to sell or who hold out for higher prices. It will do them no good in the long run. As I see it, every person in the Muskingum Valley should get behind this plan with a wartime spirit and allow nothing to delay it. They should be the happiest and proudest people in Ohio today."

37th DIVISION TO MEET IN TOLEDO

Many Pickaway-co veterans of the 37th Division—the "Buckeyes"—who carried Ohio's colors into many major battles in France and Belgium—are expected to be among the 15,000 or more veterans who will attend the Division's 16th national re-union at Toledo, Sept. 1, 2, and 3.

A large committee of Toledo citizens, headed by Harry K. Dicke, national president, 37th Division A. E. F. Association, is making elaborate plans for the reception and entertainment of the vets during the three days.

Among the many distinguished guests will be Major-General Charles S. Farnsworth who commanded the division overseas. Following the return of the division from France, the General became Chief of Infantry, United States Army, at Washington, and remained in that position until his retirement in 1928 after 40 years of distinguished service in the regular army.

On the program, also, will be Rabbi Michael Aaronson, Cincinnati, who was blinded while serving with the 37th in the Argonne drive; Leon Morand, French Consul; Chaplain H. F. McLain and representatives of the state and federal governments.

SPANISH PRINCE KILLED IN CRASH

VIENNA, Aug. 13.—Prince Gonzalos, 19-year-old fourth son of former King Alfonso of Spain, died in the arms of his sister Beatrice today in a little Austrian provincial hospital, bleeding to death from injuries received a few hours earlier in an automobile accident.

Death was officially due to a hemorrhage of the stomach. It was recalled that all of Alfonso's children suffer from haemophilia, a common genetic disease which does not permit blood to clot normally, and which often causes death from minor cuts.

The Little Congress

The Little Congress was organized about 1920 or 1921. Anyone may be a member who is employed in a general capacity of secretary or clerk to a member of the senate or house of representatives. It is primarily a debating institution. Resolutions of current interest in the house of representatives or in the senate, or both, are discussed. The rules of the house are the parliamentary rules of the Little Congress.

able to present facts as to unsanitary conditions existing in the village as a result of a recent investigation made necessary by complaints filed by interested parties. These disclosures, together with other conditions left no doubt in the minds of unprejudiced citizens as to the necessity for the installation of sanitary sewers.

At this time a letter received by village officials from the State Department of Health was real.

In view of the fact that a water works system is assured, the State Health department called attention to the fact "that one of the chief uses of a water works system is to provide water to carry away sanitary wastes." . . . "In communities where there is a water works system without a public sewerage system, the residents endeavor to provide private means of sewerage disposal. This results generally in the installation of private "septic" tanks, the effluents from which are discharged to storm sewers, gutters or local drainage ditches. This causes pollution of water-courses in and downstream from the village and may possible result in damage suits against the village." . . . "A sewerage system will certainly have to be installed anyway after the water system is completed and no federal aid on the sewerage system will be available later."

DECIDED TO VOTE

The last speaker, Emmitt L. Crist village solicitor, followed the project which was started more than a year ago, step by step, to the present time. The original set up did not provide for a vote of the citizens, but the adoption of the 10-mill levy at the last election changed these plans. In order to secure necessary funds to conduct the affairs of the village it was decided to submit the question to the electors and thus bring the project outside the 10-mill levy. This plan also assures a uniform disposition of the costs of the proposed project as the bonds will be general obligation instead of assessment bonds. Each parcel of real estate will bear its share of the cost of the system computed at a rate of $1.70 per $1,000 annually, on a tax duplicate of $1,227.950.

If the bond issue carries the taxes will not be increased, it is claimed. The village rate is now $12.80 per $1,000. The 10-mill levy with the addition of 1.70 mill sewer levy should make our rate $11.70 for $1,000 as against the present rate of $12.80, a decrease of $1.10 including the sewer bond issue.

Among others taking part in the discussion were Peter Johnson, E. F. Schlegel, G. C. Cline, A. B. Courtwright, R. C. Weber, W. H. Plum, A. W. Graham and Ashville's public benefactor, Charles E. Cromley, who has permitted the village's refuse to be poured over his lands for a period of years and in view of all this generously donated the ground on N. Cromley-st for the water works elevated tank. A civic spirit such as this is a priceless boon to any community.

The cards are on the table for the stake is the health of the village. It's Ashville lead. Play safe and watch out for the joker of delay in the hands of the opposition.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAUGHT IN SOUTH

Man Identified as Palmer, Once Thought Karpis, Held in Paducah

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 13.—Two extra guards stood watch here today over a jail cell occupied by a prisoner whom police and detectives say is Joe Palmer, notorious southwest murderer and prison fugitive.

Fingerprints and photographs of the escaped killer and of the prisoner tally in every way, authorities announced. The prisoner's only hint of admission was a remark that "I was due to die in forty-five days when I escaped from the penitentiary."

When caught as he slept in a field with a pistol beside him near railroad tracks here before dawn Saturday, the prisoner gave his name as Blackburn Jackson. Police first identified him as Alvin Karpis, sought in the Edward G. Bremer kidnaping at St. Paul, but federal agents later proved this was erroneous.

OTHER NOMINATIONS

Besides party nominations for U. S. senator and governor, the voters will endorse Republican and Democratic slates for a host of lesser state offices and many county offices tomorrow. Candidates they select will oppose each other in the election next November.

Teaching Communism to Unemployed Girls, Maj. Braught Hears

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—Major E. O. Braught, head of the state relief commission, today announced that he would fly to Oberlin immediately to investigate reports that doctrines of communism were being taught in the FERA school for unemployed girls there.

Accompanying Braught will be Charles C. Stillman, of Columbus, the federal representative at the state relief headquarters. Stillman and Braught are expected to make the trip in an Ohio National Guard plane.

Maj. Braught would make no comment on the situation except to say that "it will be fully investigated."

PROFITEERS EYED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The Agricultural Adjustment administration, which has been trying to raise prices, today began sharpening its weapons for action against the food profiteer.

With Secretary of Agriculture Wallace predicting higher prices as a result of the devastation caused by the prolonged drought, some AAA officials were frankly predicting wide-spread profiteering in some areas.

BYRD, WEAK, TO

there was great anxiety for his welfare at the base camp.

There also was anxiety for the tractor party which had been missed on the scheduled radio contact before the good news came.

Admiral Byrd himself assured the base here that all was well.

Taking the key away from Radio Operator Waite, he slowly and uncertainly tapped out the following message:

"Tell my friends not to worry. I'm all right. You fellows have done a splendid job and I want to thank you."

The radio reports were of necessity short, and the expedition base here anxiously awaited further news from the southern outpost.

STRICKEN BY FUMES

It was gathered here, however,

that Admiral Byrd had become ill in June from the fumes of his kerosene stove, and that he was left unable to properly care for himself. Apparently he was not able to give his diet the proper attention, or even to cook his food in the right way.

Furthermore, fearing further harm from the kerosene fumes Admiral Byrd used his stove very little.

Kingston's Fete Begins Thursday

Detailed program of Kingston's celebration of its 100th birthday to be observed August 16, 17 and 18, was announced today.

Civic demonstrations and parades are included in the three-day centennial celebration, which will be graced by the presence of leading dignitaries, including Governor George White, and U. S. Senator Simon D. Kees.

An address by the governor will mark the final afternoon, Saturday, and will be followed by a political forum at which all candidates are invited to attend. The address is scheduled for 2:30 p. m., following an industrial parade led by the Bainbridge high school band at one o'clock.

JUDGE ORR THERE

Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, there will be a banquet and reception for alumni at the high school. Judge Stanley Orr of Cleveland, a native of Kingston, will preside.

A hand concert by the Kingston band, and speech by Dr. Harlow Lindley of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Association are on the program Thursday afternoon. That evening, N. C. Gest of Mechanicsburg, a national authority on antiques will speak in the auditorium of the M. E. church. In this connection, there will be a display of antiques in the community hall.

H. E. Yapple is in charge of the antiques, and persons loaning exhibits are assured of good care being given them as well as prompt return, the committee announces.

PAGEANT PLANNED

Friday night in the high school auditorium a pageant depicting Kingston's past will be presented under the direction of Hugh Black. The first council meeting as well as the signing of Lord Dunmore's

NEIGHBORS in the suburbs still fight about their chickens and dogs and kids once in a while. One fellow came rushing out on his porch and yelled at his neighbors. "Say, I'd like to know what you were burying in that hole in your back yard last night? You didn't think you'd get caught, did you? But a friend of mine saw you. Now, tell me, if you dare, what were you burying in that hole in your yard?"

The other fellow wasn't so much excited.

"Why," he says, "I was burying one of my chickens, and a half of a ham and some of my buttermilk, and such things."

"So! I reckon you're crazy, ain't you? You sound foolish. And I reckon it was my dog that you were planting. Something has happened to Gyp, and I'll dig up that yard of yours till I find out if he's there."

"Well, he's there, all right. All my stuff that I told you about was inside of the dog."

Welch Endorsed by Labor Leader

March 22, 1934.

To the Voters of the 11th Congressional District of Ohio:

It is with pleasure that I commend to you the candidacy of State Representative H. H. Welch, for Representative in Congress.

As chairman of the Labor Committee of the Ohio House of Representatives, I am glad to say to you that Mr. Welch has favored, and voted for all legislation that has been for the best interest of labor. He advocated and voted for the Old Age Pension and voted to finance it by voting for an appropriation of $3,000,000.

He took a leading part in trying to pass a bill to require all tax supported institutions to burn Ohio coal. He has voted for all labor bills proposed by the A. F. L. and the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Welch is an experienced legislator and understands present day problems. He is worthy of representing the 11th Congressional district of Ohio.

It is with pleasure that I endorse his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congressman of the 11th Congressional district of Ohio.

W. T. ROBERTS,

Chairman, Labor Committee of the Ohio Legislature. Pol. Adv.

Treaty will be staged. A wedding gown parade, covering the past 70 years also is on the program.

There will be dancing in the main square each evening during the celebration.

An exceptionally interesting booklet on the history of Kingston and rural vicinity has been published for distribution in connection with the centennial. Considerable research has been done by David E. Crouse, a New York engineer, and Kingston native in preparing the book which highlights the progress and interesting events of the village from its founding on April 5, 1834. The books are available at C. H. Gott's store.

KINGSTON

The Kingston Garden club enjoyed a most delightful picnic on Tuesday evening at the beautiful country home of Mrs. May McCullough, with Mrs. A. U. Brundige and Miss Katherine L. Brundige assistant hostesses. A short program was presented at 4:30 o'clock with Mrs. McCullough, the vice president presiding. Miss Mary McKenzie read two fine articles, "Gardens or Back Yards" and "A Garden Full of Tradition," which were discussed and much enjoyed. Mrs. Judson Dresbach, a visitor entertained the group with a number of readings, "To Be or Not to Be," "The Discovery of America" and "The Swedish Visitor." Mrs. Dresbach is a clever reader and all of her selections were enjoyed. At six o'clock a bountiful supper was served cafeteria. Among those enjoying pleasant affair were:

Mrs. Edward Minshall, Mrs. David McCorkle, Mrs. F. P. Long, Mrs. A. U. Brundige, Miss Katherine L. Brundige, Mrs. W. R. Sunderland, Mrs. S. C. Lightner, Mrs. R. E. Lightner, Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett and daughter, Jane, Mrs. Alice Riegel, Mrs. Fred Mowery, Mrs. J. P. Gardner and daughter, Mary, Mrs. W. D. Wood, Miss Carrie Umsted, Mrs. Judson Dresbach and daughter, Sue, Miss Ora Rittenour, Eleanor Jane Rittenour, Mrs. Robert Brundige, Misses Josephine and Lettie Brundige, Mrs. John Tom and her guest, Miss Sarah Watkins, Misses Mary and Ruth McKenzie, Mrs. Burr Rader and daughter, Gladys, Mrs. McCullough and her guest, Leona Clark. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. C. Lightner with Mrs. R. E. Lightner and Mrs. G. W. McGinnis assistant hostesses. The meeting will be held on the first Tuesday in September and a good program will be presented.

Misses Frances Patrick and Mary Margaret Immell and Messrs Gerald Patrick and Robert Immell spent from Friday until Wednesday at Buckeye Lake. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Patrick joined them and enjoyed the day at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Minshall and children, Billy and Betty Jo, and George Lutz left on Wednesday to visit relatives at Beckley, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. John Shoemaker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller and family spent from Wednesday until Sunday evening at Gallipolis with relatives and attended the funeral services held for Mrs. Joe Shoemaker.

Wilbur Thornton and daughters, Alde and Mrs. Neal Lanerman and daughter, Patricia Joan visited on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mettler and family at Williamsport. Mr. and Mrs. Mettler are announcing the birth of a ten pound daughter and they have named her Marilyn Ruth. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Whittier, who are also announcing the birth of a son and they have named him Glenn Eugene.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans of Chillicothe are the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Evans and family.

Local Police Handicapped

DEPARTMENT of Justice agents have cut another notch in their guns and given municipal police an inferiority complex. They are living nobly up to their reputation of getting their man. The big mistake in the career of "Dangerous John" Dillinger seems to have been the unlawful transportation of a stolen automobile across a state line, the crime for which he was sought by the federal government.

Advocates of a system of federal police to supplant all municipal and state police will use the slaying of Dillinger with good effect as propaganda. Where several states and great cities had failed the federal government had succeeded.

What lesson the desperado fraternity shall learn from this latest chapter in the amazing history of crime in America it is too early to say. Some may turn to making a living honestly or at least within the law; others may just make it an inviolable rule to stay away from state lines with stolen automobiles.

As for the American public it is now more convinced than ever that if crime is to be put down in the United States the federal government will have to do it. And yet that is unfair to the other law enforcement officers, who are less at fault than the system under which they operate. The department of justice agent gets his man because he takes no time off from the hunt to blow down motorists or shoot stray dogs. You cannot stop to shoot squirrels while hunting wolves.

Reading of the taking of Dillinger, dead or alive, a society outraged by the brutal Lindbergh kidnapping and murder will take new hope that some day the perpetrators of that atrocity will be overtaken by retributive justice.

Time for a Decision

CONDEMNATION of the navy dirigible, Los Angeles, as unsafe for further active service will have the effect of reviving the question of the value of airships as weapons of national defense.

The issue has been debated for years, with no decision recorded. Supposed experts in such matters are divided in their opinions. Tests have been made, but these have not served to settle the controversy.

With the Los Angeles out of commission, the country has only one dirigible, the Macon, in active service. It participated in the recent maneuvers of the fleet on the latter's passage from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and a report on its performance now is before naval authorities. Unofficial reports at the time credited the Macon with doing valuable work.

Several million dollars has been expended by the United States in experimenting with dirigibles. These experiments have been marked by disasters that have taken a number of lives. They are not to be condemned merely because of this. Nearly all progress is purchased at the sacrifice of life.

It seems, though, that the experiments by now should have furnished sufficient reliable data on which to base a decision as to the value of dirigibles in warfare. Before indulging in further costly tests, the government would do well to make a serious and expert study of the results to date, in an effort to determine whether new expenditures and risks would be justified.

College men make good prisoners, says Warden Lawes of Sing Sing. Now, have you any doubt as to the value of an education?

Dixie is prospering. You can buy land at $5 an acre and get $10 an acre for not using it.

Maybe the modern girl can't sew well, but the modern boy couldn't make a good ox cart, either.

Another cause of heart trouble is the idea that a 50-year-old heart can take a 10-year-old's exercise.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS

Diane Carroll—young artist and wealthy orphan, more interested in her work than society—visits the little village of Pine Knob in the Ozarks. Her sunny disposition melts the usual frigidity of the mountaineers towards strangers as they accept her as one of the "home folks"—all except Ann Haskel, whose word is law in Pine Knob. Diane, nevertheless, is fascinated by Ann about whom she has heard conflicting stories of generosity and hardness. The mountain woman seems to be avoiding Diane, but her good-looking stepson, Jeff Todd, follows the artist everywhere. Ann has a son of her own, John Herbert Haskel, whom she sent away years ago, following the death of her first husband. Diane's best friends among the mountaineers are "Uncle Jimmie" and "Aunt Josie" Cartwright who have promised to protect her from the annoying Jeff.

CHAPTER VII

Diane left the Lodge early in the morning, as usual, intending to go down the trail to the Cartwrights'. But upon reaching the point where the woodland path leaves the Wilderness Road she suddenly changed her mind. Uncle Jimmie had told her that the head of Shady Creek was only about two miles from the Lodge and, being in an adventurous mood, she determined to explore. She was familiar enough with the country by now to make a fairly accurate guess as to where she would find the beginning of the little stream. She might, she thought, if she found nothing she wished to sketch, follow on down the creek and surprise her friends by coming upon them unexpectedly—through the back door, as it were.

The woods were beautiful with the early sunlight slanting through the trees. A cardinal whistled a cheery greeting. A bluejay announced her coming. Squirrels barked and chattered, and striped chipmunks scampered here and there as if teasing her to play tag with them.

In the vicinity of the Lodge and the Haskel place the growth of timber was rather open, with comparatively little underbrush, and gently rolling ground sloping gradually down to the river bottoms. But soon, as Diane went on along the mountain-side under the crest of the ridge, the woods became more dense with heavier undergrowth, and the smooth ground was broken by ravines and gulches, with cliffs and rocky ledges, and high above, on her right, Pine Knob towered into the sky. She was beginning to think that she had come at least two miles when, ahead and a little to her left, she glimpsed the blue sky between the trunks of the trees. A few minutes later she stood on a steep mountain-side, looking down into a deep gorge. As it led away toward the southeast, the gorge widened into a winding valley which, her eye could trace for several miles until it was lost in the maze of gray-green hills.

"That," said Diane to herself, "must be Shady Creek Valley. Uncle Jimmie said the creek empties into Cold River about ten miles below the Lodge. Uncle Jimmie's little farm must be right down there." Searching carefully, her eyes discovered a thread of blue smoke curling up through the tree-tops below. "I am right," she exclaimed, with satisfaction. "That smoke is from the cabin chimney. Shady Creek begins right here in this gorge." For some time she stood looking down into the leafy depths below, and away over the forest sea to the distant sweep of the hills. Then she started down. As she descended the dense forest closed in about her. The view of the hills beyond was shut out as if a mighty invisible hand drew close the heavy curtains of green. The trunks of the trees were almost hidden by a thick dank growth of bushes. The rocks and cliffs were hung with tapestries of moss and vines. The ground was carpeted with ferns. From overhead, through the ceiling of leaves and branches, the sunlight sifted down in golden shafts and sprays. The air was heavy with the smell of the woods. There was no sound—

no stirring of life, no movement of tree or bush. The stillness was the solemn stillness of an old cathedral. The artist paused often to look about and to listen with a feeling of awe and reverence as if she were exploring a sacred place of worship.

Coming to a wide terrace-like bench where the undergrowth was not so heavy and the cathedral effect of tree-trunk columns and arching branches and shafted light was most impressive, she determined to make a sketch. She set up her easel at one end of the little glade, and was soon deep in the joy of her work.

An hour or more passed. Suddenly the artist thought she heard voices. Startled, she listened intently. The sound came again—a little clearer. Somewhere in the gloomy depths of the gorge there me. This is the head of Shady Creek, isn't it?" The spring down yonder a piece is the head of Shady. Them old fool Cartwrights done told you what to find it, I reckon."

"Uncle Jimmie only said it was about two miles from the Lodge. He didn't tell me in what direction or how to get here. He said it was too rough and wild for me to go alone. I found it all by myself."

There was a note of quite justifiable pride in the artist's voice, and, while the Lodge people had told her that the Haskel woman never laughed, she saw a shadow of a smile flit across those grim features.

"You're sure gittin' to be right to home 'round these parts, ain't you?" returned Ann Haskel, dryly. "Most as good as findin' your way 'bout as if you war borned in the

"What be you a-doin' hyear?" Ann Haskel asked harshly.

were people talking. Then, as she listened, she knew there were two people coming up the mountain. She heard them coming nearer and nearer. They were now in the thick bushes just beyond the farther end of the open glade where she sat. One of the voices seemed familiar. The sound ceased. "They have passed on up the mountain," she thought. "There must be a trail."

With a smile of satisfaction that she had not been discovered and her work interrupted, she gave herself again to her painting. Five minutes later, from close behind her a voice said, harshly: "What be you a-doin' hyear?"

Startled, the artist whirled about. Ann Haskel was standing not twenty feet away. Diane knew instantly that the other voice which had seemed familiar was the voice of Jeff Todd. She glanced quickly about, but the Haskel woman was alone.

"I asked you what you're a-doin' hyear?"

The backwoods woman was dressed, as usual, in a coarse wide skirt, man's boots and shirt and black, wide-brimmed hat. Diane, looking at her, involuntarily smiled. Then, at something which she saw in that hard, uncompromising face and in the black eyes which were fixed upon her so intently, she remembered Pappy Giles' story of the night-riders and felt a chill of fear. "I am only making a sketch of this lovely spot," she faltered.

"I can see you're a-doin' that," returned the mountain woman, shortly. "You are Mrs. Haskel, aren't you?" Diane ventured, politely. "You know good an' well I'm Ann Haskel."

"I am Diane Carroll," murmured the younger woman. "I know that too." Diane was silent.

"This hyear's my property." "Oh, Uncle Jimmie didn't tell backwoods same's we-uns."

"I hope I am not trespassing," faltered Diane, humbly.

"You're welcome," returned the other. "I got sense to see you ain't a-hurtin' nobody."

She seated herself on the ground and, removing her hat, disclosed a shock of black hair generously streaked with gray.

"Me an' Jeff war jest down yonder a-huntin' a cow, what ain't come in with the rest these two days past. She's a-hidin' out with her calf somewhars in the bresh, I reckon. Ain't seed nothin' of a brindle heifer with one horn broke, have ye?"

Was Diane mistaken or was there a faint touch of mocking humor in the mountain woman's simple question?

"I haven't seen a living thing since I left the Lodge," the artist answered, "except squirrels and chipmunks and birds."

"Uh-huh! You'll allus see plenty of them. I don't low no huntin'. Aim to keep it woody long's I live. They can do's they please after I'm gone. That ornery Bill Fowler done sold his place to them club folks to build the Lodge on 'fore I knowed anything about hit. Bill he pulled out for Oklahoma, or somewhars, right sudden—soon's he'd closed the deal."

"I know exactly how you feel about it, Mrs. Haskel."

"Think you do, do ye?" "I'm sure I do. I love the woods, too."

"Know anything about trees?" "Not much, I fear."

"I lowed you wouldn't. You'd think, now, if a body loved the woods they'd jest natchally want to know 'bout trees, wouldn't ye? Most folks air funny that a way—a-lovin' things they don't know nothin' 'bout an' a-hatin' the same way."

New York City

RHEUMATISM and arthritis are diseases which continue to confuse a great many persons. The American committee for the control of rheumatism has recently published a booklet called "Primer on Rheumatism". This describes the various forms of arthritis and rheumatism.

Not all aches and pains of the body should be called "rheumatism". To do so is a common practice and often leads to improper treatment. The three chief types of rheumatism are known to the medical profession as inflammatory rheumatism, or rheumatic fever; chronic rheumatism, or arthritis, and muscular rheumatism, known as myositis.

Dr. Copeland

May Affect Heart
The first form mentioned is commonly encountered in children and young people. It is serious because the germs may attack the heart and leave the sufferer with some form of heart disease. Ordinarily, rheumatic fever afflicts persons between the ages of five and thirty years. The disease is rarely contracted in warm climates. It usually occurs in the late winter or early spring.

Chronic rheumatism, or arthritis, differs markedly from rheumatic fever. It is not as likely to be found in children or adolescents as in adults. In this form the heart is not involved, but the various joints of the body are affected.

As a rule it is persistent, lasting for years. If not checked it leads to marked pain and interference with normal activity. In severe cases the sufferer actually becomes crippled.

There are many kinds of chronic rheumatism. One form is more common among women. In this type of rheumatism there is considerable stiffness of the involved joint. The cause can often be traced to a focus of infection in diseased tonsils, diseased teeth, or the nasal sinuses.

The sufferer from rheumatism or arthritis must place himself in the hands of a competent physician. The treatment depends entirely upon the form of the affliction. It is essential that every sufferer obtain an abundance of fresh air, nourishing food, rest and relaxation.

See Your Physician
In some instances the application of heat to the joints by the use of hot packs or electrical bakers is beneficial. This brings more blood to the joint, but whatever treatment is given should be applied only under the advice of a physician. If improperly applied, the condition may become aggravated.

In every instance it is advisable that an X-ray picture be taken of the involved joint. This is of great value in determining which form of treatment is likely to be most beneficial. Never neglect arthritis because if you do permanent and disabling deformities may result.

When it comes to making clothes for the larger woman the designer just must know how to flatter. This is a modest house frock but every line in it does something nice for the wearer—makes her look slimmer, or younger or prettier! The only straight lines are those in the heightening front panel. All the rest are either rounded or diagonal, cleverly cutting the figure or moulding it—in appearance—into charming contours. The waistcoat bodice is as smart as can be, and the collar and little vest vastly becoming.

Pattern 9087 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards 36 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

In the setting in which he played the role which first won him motion picture fame—the death house of a great prison—Clark Gable returned to the screen of the Cliftona Theatre in "Manhattan Melodrama," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

With him in this new photoplay are William Powell and Myrna Loy, co-starred with Gable at the head of a supporting cast of notables.

Gable's first acquaintance with the sinister silence of the condemned cell block was in "The Last Mile," and so effective were his scenes that he won a long-term contract with M-G-M and rapidly rose to stardom.

Since then he has played a wide variety of parts, but not until "Manhattan Melodrama" has he portrayed a prisoner condemned to die. This time, instead of raving and rebelling against his fate, he meets it with cool insouciance; he is, curiously enough, a condemned prisoner who welcomes the electric chair.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Here is an ideal pattern for the combination of two of the smartest of fall fabrics—satin and metal cloth. It has a typically Parisian simplicity and chic with its row of buttons straight down the back—its raglan sleeves buttoned in closely to the wrist and its scarf knotted under the chin. Satin or crepe in black or any dark shade such as the new Scotch green, licorice brown or claret would be outstandingly attractive combined with a scarf of gold or silver cloth, or lighter satin. The buttons may be covered with fabric, or may be of metal.

Pattern 9091 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

FEAR STRIKERS MAY HIT ONION HARVEST

McGUFFEY, Aug. 13—Authorities today feared that striking farm hands in the Scioto marshland onion fields would attempt to block harvesting of the million-dollar crop by major onion growers.

Violence was narrowly averted yesterday when Sheriff Wilbur Mitchell dispersed striking onion

weeders and their families who had met for a picnic in a grove here in defiance of the order of Mayor Godfrey Ott.

Appearing at the picnic in company with Marshal Wilford Wies, the mayor told the officer to disperse the crowd of 200 gathered in the grove. Marshal Wies shouted to the strikers:

ASKED TO DISPERSE

"In the name of the state of Ohio, I am asking you folks to disperse."

The crowd started uttering boos and cat-calls and Mayor Ott called upon Sheriff Mitchell to disperse the strikers. The latter, aided by deputies armed with riot guns, pushed the picnickers pell mell into the streets. There was no violence.

Although dispersing the crowd Sheriff Mitchell, whose sympathies are said to be with the strikers, said Mayor Ott's action in having the picnic broken up was "a dirty trick." Mayor Ott previously had ruled that there should be no public gatherings of any kind "until peace and order have been restored."

After driving the strikers into the street, the deputies returned to the grove and broke up the picnic tables which had been made from onion crates.

Some of the major operators affected by the strike started harvesting on a small scale late last week and there was no trouble. However, it was feared by authorities that any attempt to harvest the crops on a large-scale basis would cause an outbreak between pickets of the strikers and the farm hands willing to work.

Austria's Royal Family Returning to Throne?

vested in Archduke Otto, extreme right, who assertedly is being groomed for the throne vacated by his father, the late Emperor Karl, by a group of monarchists reportedly planning a coup.

Home Helps

Questions and Answers

Are bananas a fruit or a vegetable?

When bananas are green-tipped they are a vegetable, and should be cooked. When they are all yellow, they are a fruit or vegetable and may be eaten either raw or cooked. When bananas are brown spotted, they are a sweet fruit, and their flavor is at its best.

Is there any way to keep peeled bananas from discoloring when it is necessary for them to stand a while before serving?

Yes. Bananas and apples darken when exposed to air, and if the fruit is sprinkled with lemon juice it will retain its original clear color. If the fruit is covered with a thin sugar and water syrup, canned or fresh fruit juice, it is able to be used for a sweet dessert or in a fruit salad.

I am planning to serve a fruit cocktail at a breakfast for 24 guests. How many oranges and grapefruit should I use with these as the only ingredients?

In order to obtain the juice that makes the fruit cocktail so tasty, canned grapefruit is recommended. Use 1 dozen large oranges, and 3 number 2 size cans of grapefruit. An attractive garnish that makes the cocktail seem more sparkling is a red maraschino cherry and a sprig of mint leaf for each cup. Cut the oranges in sections, removing all the white membrane, and allow it to chill thoroughly before adding the chilled grapefruit. The mixture will draw enough juice to improve the flavor of the serving. An especially delicious flavor is imparted by the mint, and crushed mint when allowed to soak in the juice while the fruit is chilling, adds zest and refreshment to the cocktail.

It seems that the things that I can at home always look mushy in the cans. How should the fruits or vegetables be processed to keep them whole and attractive looking?

There are several things to watch in home canning to enable you to have attractive and palatable foods resulting. First of all, select firm fruit, or tomatoes. If your fruit is already soft, canning will not improve the condition of the food. Grade your fruits and vegetables so that those of approximately the same size will be arranged in the same can. Do not over process the cans. Overcooking, if the open kettle method is used, causes a messy looking product, while cold packing or oven processing, enables the foods to remain whole because they are handled so little and the application of heat can be fairly well controlled.

Peach Butter For Crisp Toast

The canning season always comes when the thermometers are trying to burst themselves, but by the time the peaches are ripe in great quantities, your ambition should be on the return. Peach butter is a delicious spread and makes any breadstuff taste better, especially on brisk, chilly mornings!

Peach Butter

4 qts. peaches 1 tsp. cinnamon
1 C. hot water 1/2 tsp. cloves
1 lb. sugar

Wash the peaches, rub them to remove the fuzz, cut them in half, and take out the seeds. Measure the peaches and put them, with the water, into the preserving kettle, bring them to a boil, and cook until they are thoroughly softened. Then press them through a sieve or a colander, return the pulp to the preserving kettle, and add the sugar and the spices. Cook slowly for 1 or 2 hours, or until it has become a rich, dark, clear color. Pour the butter into hot sterilized glasses or crocks, cool and seal.

After playing games and putting on stunts, we served ice cream and cake. Those present were Jane Klingensmith, Phillis Young, Betty Young, Louis Goldsberry and Marcellette Kerr.

Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the basement of the Presbyterian church.

We had our color salute. After games and some practice in signaling, we went to patrol corners. When we came back from patrol corners we played outside, while some of the girls set the tables. After dinner we held investiture service during which Marjorie McAllister received her pin. We closed with taps and the radio handclasp.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

IT'S funny how people want to know all about a guy that they're going to give a dime to. Just as soon as somebody asks you for enough to buy a meal, you want to know whether he ever misspent a penny and whether he's "deserving." Why, sure, he's deserving, if he's hungry.

Well, there was a tramp come to a house and asked if he could shovel off the first snowfall, since it wasn't very heavy. The lady looked him over.

"I got to ask you this," she says. "Do you use liquor at all?" "Now," says the tramp, "I got to know something before I can answer you. Am I to understand that this is a invitation, or just snoopin'?"

WELCH For CONGRESS

Nominate a man who can be elected in November, and a man that you know will give Circleville and Pickaway County, a Square Deal.

Take Notice, Democrats. A survey of the 11th Congressional District, shows that Mr. Underwood can not be elected to a SEVENTH TERM. The survey shows that if he is nominated, a Republican will go to Washington at a time when our President needs a Democrat, assuring Democratic support.

The feeling is so pronounced against Mr. Underwood for a SEVENTH TERM, that he can not be elected. It is generally agreed that we are entitled to a New Deal in the office of Congressman. H. B. Welch is the logical man and the man who can win over Underwood, and the man who can win in November.

Concentrate your vote on Welch, as he is the man to send to Washington to support President Roosevelt. Welch is the leading candidate in every county in the District.

A Survey shows he will carry Hocking and Fairfield by a big vote. He will carry Pickaway by a safe margin. Indications show that he will carry Ross, and that he will get a substantial vote in Perry.

Mr. Welch has been a leader for the New Deal program in the Ohio Legislature and has helped to make the President's program possible in Ohio.

It is agreed that he is the logical man to send to Washington.

Hunted in Jail Break

Escaping from the Oklahoma prison at McAlester by sawing bars, these three women were being hunted in many states. They are, top to bottom, Clarice Jones, 18, who was serving five years for robbery; Bessie Catlin, 29, serving 20 years for manslaughter, and Iva Rhodes, 25, serving 35 years for murder.

It now appears he is destined for a more important post.

This would have been specific and measurable. Industry then would be able to gauge business expectations, proceed accordingly.

Two-To-One Bet
Marriner S. Eccles, Special Assistant to Secretary Morgenthau, is a good bet as next Governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

The slender, dark-haired Utah-an, dominant banker in his State at the age of 39, is No. 1 man on the President's list of possible successors to recently resigned Governor Eugene B. Clegg.

Eccles is a New Deal Republican. Until 1930 he was a typical orthodox businessman, managing and extending with much skill extensive interests inherited from a pioneer father.

But with the depression spreading its blighting hand in 1930, Eccles heard a liberal economist speak.

The latter's warning struck deep. Eccles began reading extensively in economics and history. He came to the conclusion that the Government had to engage in a great spending program to revive industry and battle down unemployment.

He also came to the view that an extensive system of social insurance was vital.

These views—unique for a banker—first came to public attention early in 1932, when Senator LaFollette invited businessmen to tell a Senate committee what they thought should be done to overcome the depression. Eccles' plans stood out like a sore thumb.

It was on this trip East that the young Utahman met Professor Ray Moley, Professor Rex Tugwell, and other potent New Deal figures.

For a time Eccles was under consideration as Undersecretary of the Treasury, but his unfamiliarity with government finance weighed

Bath Tub Romance Washed Out

R. C. Dowling

Marjorie Crawford

The "Kidnaping" romance of D. C. (Dapper Danny) Dowling, movie director, and Marjorie Crawford, flying actress, has ended in separation, according to Hollywood dispatches which said the actress would file for divorce. During the hearing last May on charges Dowling kidnaped her and took her to Yuma, Ariz., Marjorie testified Dowling tried to force her to marry him. Dowling, seeking to prove Miss Crawford was a willing companion, once declared, "As God is my judge, I gave you a bath."

TOO TIRED TO PLAY.....and then he Smoked a CAMEL!

Here's the rapid way to bring back energy when tired!

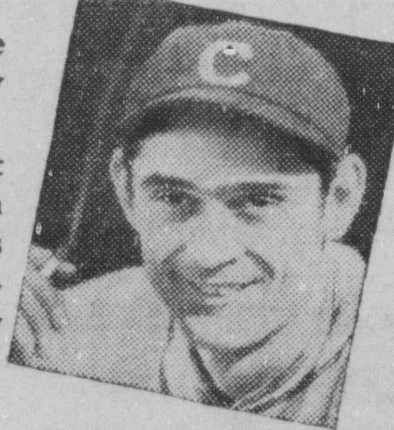

Within a few minutes after smoking a Camel, when weary and dispirited, you will find your vim and vigor definitely increased. First you notice the full, rich flavor of Camels. Then comes a delightful "lift" in energy.

Idea Not New! Thousands of Camel smokers have long known and enjoyed this wholesome effect. And now scientists fully confirm their experiences, as you may have read already.

Camels have a positive "energizing effect." Through it your latent, natural energy is made available. The feeling of well-being and vigor, natural to all, is quickly heightened.

So make Camels your cigarette. Be one of the great army of smokers who are delighted to "get a lift with a Camel." With Camels you can smoke just as many as you want. Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCO than any other popular brand. They will not ruffle your nerves!

"There's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I smoke a lot. Camels never interfere with my nerves!"

Hugh R. Wilson to Be U. S. High Commissioner to League of Nations

WASHINGTON — The United States has come a long way from the isolationist days when the revolt against Woodrow Wilson slammed the door shut in the face of the League of Nations.

Latest gesture toward Geneva is the State Department's secret decision to appoint Hugh R. Wilson as "High Commissioner to the League of Nations."

This is a move engineered by the career men, in part by League supporters in the State Department. They have felt for some time that the United States needed semi-official representation at Geneva. To date this representation has been partly by Wilson, who was American Minister to Switzerland but lived at Berne; partly by Prentiss Gilbert, Consul-General in Geneva.

Between these two, however, there was open, bitter rivalry. Wilson is suave, punctilious, able, son of Chicago's famous shirt-maker, has been in diplomacy almost ever since he went to school in Paris. Gilbert is genial, rough-and-ready, son of an army officer, once managed the Rochester (N. Y.) Fair, is not a career diplomat.

Wilson has now won the battle. Gilbert will leave Geneva.

Retrospection

Naval Secretary Claude Swann, basking in the vacation sunshine on the porch at Haver's Bay camp, was reminiscing with an old political crony. The Secretary has a rare sense of humor, especially about himself.

"Well," he said, "it's a long, long road from pulling a mule cart behind a plow to sitting in the chair of Secretary to the Navy."

"Yes, Claude," agreed the crony, "it sure is. It's a long, long road." Swann seemed to enjoy thinking about it. He repeated:

"It took years and years to travel it, but here I am. And I'm glad I'm here. I don't want to go back."

The crony eyed him with a mischievous twinkle.

"Well, Claude," he observed, "there's one thing you can be thankful for. The road you took to get here was so darned winding, you'll never be able to find your way back again."

And the genial Swann laughed so hard he adopted this as his favorite story on himself.

Housing Worries

The Housing Administration, now slowly swinging into action, is eyed anxiously in inner Administration circles.

More than one of the President's counselors has serious private doubts whether the project will be an appreciable factor in stimulating industry, eliminating unemployment.

These fears they base on two grounds:

1. Home owners—most of them in none too favorable economic condition after four years of depression—will be extremely skittish about going further into debt for renovations and modernization.

2. Banks, still suffering from depression shock, probably will continue to keep a tight grip on their money bags, despite the government's 20 per cent guarantee on all housing loans.

James A. Moffett, dapper Housing Administrator, and his large staff of publicity shock-troops, ebulliently proclaim their confidence in being able to break down the "sales resistance" of both bankers and home owners.

But privately they admit it is a big gamble.

This is exactly what the inner circle doubters and the openly critical Progressives in Congress complain about.

They hold the time is long past when such risky chances can be safely taken with the country's recovery requirements; that the underlying economic structure is desperately in need of solid substance—and not the uncertain flurries of "shots in the arm."

Instead of trying to inveigle economically inaccurate property-

STUDYING WINTER

Anxiety Ends as Radio Contact Made

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—In spite of his weakened condition Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd probably will not return to Little America with the tractor party which finally reached his lonely outpost 123 miles south, it was said today at the offices of Mackay radio which has been handling all messages to the Byrd expedition.

The tractor train, it is understood at the Mackay headquarters, carried supplies for Admiral Byrd to prolong his stay at the outpost observing the climatic phenomena of an Antarctic winter, which have included temperatures of 80 below zero.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctic, Aug. 13.—Thin and weak after his lonely vigil of four and a half months of Antarctic winter near the south pole, Admiral Byrd was reached at last by the tractor party on its third attempt to relieve him.

Between these two, however, there was open, bitter rivalry. TWO MORE CIRCUS PEOPLE VICTIMS

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—Deaths of two more circus employees from typhoid fever were recorded today in Harper hospital here where 53 other "big tent" workers are fighting the ravages of the disease. Two deaths had been reported earlier.

The latest victims were Kent Lewis, 27, of Detroit, a ticket seller, and George Craig, 28, of Shreveport, La., member of the train crew.

All the patients are employees of the Ringling brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus which played here several weeks ago.

Former Heads Davey Here By Only 46; Vic's Margin 351 Over White.

Lieutenant Governor Charles Sawyer, of Cincinnati, and former Governor Wm. Donahey, of Columbus, Democratic candidates for governor and U. S. senator, respectively, who have consistently led in their fields in the straw vote conducted by The Herald, were still ahead as the poll was brought to an end Monday morning.

A total of 921 ballots were cast in the poll which began last Monday afternoon. Business establishments, industrial plants, and residences in this city and the villages of Ashville and Williamsport were visited by The Herald's representatives in the course of the straw vote.

As the poll ended this morning, Mr. Sawyer was leading his nearest opponent, Martin L. Davey, of Kent, by 46 votes, while Mr. Donahey was ahead of Governor George White, his nearest competitor, by a more than four to one vote.

Approximately 200 ballots were cast in the poll taken on the streets here Saturday. In a vote taken in the afternoon, Sawyer and Davey ran neck and neck, the former barely winning out by a 38 to 37 vote.

BROWN LEADING, TOO
Clarence J. Brown also forged ahead in the Republican gubernatorial race and as the vote ended, he was leading Daniel E. Morgan.

YOUR DUTY: VOTE

(An Editorial)

Tuesday's election presents every Circleville and Pickaway-co voter, man or woman, an opportunity to register his or her sentiments concerning candidates who are seeking district, state or county positions. Advantage should be taken of this right to go to the polls.

Persons who will shape the path to be followed by our state government, who will help or deter the efforts of our noble president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and who will direct the destinies of the county for the next two or four years will be nominated, and their selection warrants careful consideration of every qualified elector. Too many voters ignore the primary but rue their decision when some candidate whom they think not desirable is fortunate enough to win the nomination.

The only way this evil can be stamped out is for every good red-blooded American to go to the polls between 6:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Tuesday and Vote for the persons you think best qualified to administer the business of your government, national, state and local.

BULKLEY FIRES PROBE CHARGE AT GOV. WHITE

Says If White Nominated "Vote Buying" Claim Will Be Aired

GOVERNOR WILLING

Invites Light of Publicity on Efforts

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—Threats of a senatorial investigation if Gov. George White wins the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator in tomorrow's primary election swept out over the state from Cleveland today as voters made ready to go to the polls.

U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, one of the chief supporters of Congressman Charles West, Granville, was understood to be considering asking the senate to scrutinize the Ohio primary if White wins.

In a statement issued in Cleveland the junior Ohio senator accused the governor of "buying the support" of the Cleveland regular Democratic organizations "with high wages which will be paid for out of public funds."

CLAIMS VOTES BOUGHT
"We cannot have buying of votes, wholesale with public money," said Senator Bulkley. Meanwhile, Governor White.

RAIN PREDICTED

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—A rainy primary election day was predicted for Ohio today by W. H. Alexander, United States weather bureau observer here.

Alexander's forecast for the state is: "Warm and unsettled weather with possible thundershowers tonight and Tuesday."

also in Cleveland on the eve of the election, issued a brief statement "welcoming the spotlight of publicity on any act of my administration."

In the other corner of the triangular contest is former Gov. Vic Donahey, who having closed his campaign with a sally against both White and West, sat back to await the voting.

Most of the other candidates had bid farewell to the primary hustlings, but Clarence J. Brown, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, delayed jangling down the curtain on his campaign until after a Brown rally in the capital tonight.

FILES DAMAGE SUIT
Seeking $2,500 damages as a result of a fall on July 15, Mrs. Josephine Clarridge, wife of John Clarridge, of Monroeville, filed suit in common pleas court Monday against the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. and Charles McKendry, of Mt. Sterling.

The money is claimed as a result of Mrs. Clarridge's fall into an open stairway at the side of the store the A. and P. company operates in Mt. Sterling. Charles McKendry owns the building.

Mrs. Clarridge's petition states that both defendants were negligent in failing to put a protective guard railing around the open stairway, she has been unable to work since the accident, and has suffered several permanent injuries. Mrs. Clarridge related in the petition she is represented by Charles H. May and Charles Gerhardt.

Answer due for the defendant is Sept. 15.

FIRST RESULTS ABOUT 9, SAYS COUNTY BOARD

Three County, Number of District and State Contests, to Draw

POLLS OPEN 6:30

Parties Ask Names of Two Be Written in

Faced with the task of selecting a number of new state, district and county officials, 6,000 Pickaway-co voters will go to the polls tomorrow to register their choices in one of the most interesting primaries in years.

Board of election officials freely predicted Monday that the total number of votes cast Tuesday will be at least 25 per cent more than the 5,404 total in 1932. Democrats cast 3,531 ballots and Republicans 1,873, two years ago.

Most of the candidates planned to wind up their campaigns tonight at the fish fry and dancing program being held today on the Ben Metzger farm, near the West-

VOTE AT HAINES BLD.
Harry E. Well, deputy clerk of the board of elections, said Monday that Circleville-twp voters will cast their ballots at the Haines building, 209 W. Main-st, instead of Jack Pile's garage, E. Franklin-st.

fast school house, while a few others indicated that they intended to work in the city until as late as possible.

3 COUNTY CONTESTS
While there are three interesting contests on the county ticket, the chief topic of conversation in voters' circles continued to center on the recorder's race, in which nine Democratic and two Republican candidates are entered.

It was the belief of most political observers Monday that if one of the Democratic candidates polled a comfortable majority in the city of Circleville, that lucky person might be the nominee. Others, however, quickly pointed out with seven candidates entered from the city, the vote would be split and possibility of a majority for any one of them was slim.

As the time for the opening of the polls rapidly approached, the county Democratic ticket still remained incomplete. Two of the city's youthful attorneys declined to become the party's candidate for prosecuting attorney and in doing so left the field open for Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, Republican, in November.

WRITE IN 2 NAMES
Democratic voters will be urged, however, to write in the name of Dr. C. E. Bowers as the party's candidate for coroner. Dr. Bowers failed to file a nominating petition in June, but expressed his willingness to run if sufficient number of voters recorded his name.

Republican voters have been asked to write in the name of George H. Fickard for county treasurer. He will oppose the winner of the Democratic County-Anderson-Hoffman race.

Harry E. Well, deputy clerk of the board of elections, expressed belief today that first results of the primary will not be known before 3 p. m. tomorrow. With

JORDAN IN APPEAL FOR CONSERVANCY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—A militant appeal for the Muskingum Valley's 1,000,000 people to get behind the government's program for the $35,200,000 conservancy district there, coupled with a warning against attempts at land profiteering, was made here today by Allan Jordan, secretary of the Ohio Valley Water conservation board.

He made his statement simultaneously with the release of detailed plans for the project by the war department engineers who proposed to build 15 dams from 40 to 115 feet high and to create eight large and six small permanent lakes.

"It's wonderful too that Ohio should get this project. It's the first of its kind in the country." Jordan pointed out the stipulation in the detailed plans which said "seven villages will either be removed to higher ground or protected from floods by levees." He said that it would be "unfortunate if army engineers encountered difficulty because villagers objected to having their homes moved or walled in by dykes."

It was at this point that he uttered the warning against land profiteering, recalling that actual start of one phase of the Miami Valley flood control project at Dayton after the 1913 floods was delayed for 70 days because it required that much time to iron out the objections of residents of Osborn, Ohio which was moved to higher ground.

"The people should remember that this project although it may require the removal of their home sites is for the best," Jordan said. "I see that they plan to start actual construction by November 1. That will give work to between 6,000 and 8,000 men for several years. It would be a crime if any thing should happen that would delay actual start."

"I can only point out that the government has the right of eminent domain and that it can condemn properties whose owners do not wish to sell or who hold out for higher prices. It will do them no good in the long run. As I see it, every person in the Muskingum Valley should get behind this plan with a wartime spirit and allow nothing to delay it. They should be the happiest and proudest people in Ohio today."

37th DIVISION TO MEET IN TOLEDO

Many Pickaway-co veterans of the 37th Division—the "Buckeyes"—who carried Ohio's colors into many major battles in France and Belgium—are expected to be among the 15,000 or more veterans who will attend the Division's 16th national re-union at Toledo, Sept. 1, 2, and 3.

A large committee of Toledo citizens, headed by Harry K. Dickey, national president, 37th Division A. E. F. Association, is making elaborate plans for the reception and entertainment of the vets during the three days.

Among the many distinguished guests will be Major-General Charles S. Farnsworth who commanded the division overseas. Following the return of the division from France, the General became Chief of Infantry, United States Army, at Washington, and remained in that position until his retirement in 1928 after 40 years of distinguished service in the regular army.

On the program, also, will be Rabbi Michael Aaronson, Cincinnati, who was killed while serving with the 37th in the Argonne drive; Leon Morand, French Consul; Chaplain H. F. McLain and representatives of the state and federal governments.

SPANISH PRINCE KILLED IN CRASH

VIENNA, Aug. 13.—Prince Gonzalos, 19-year-old fourth son of former King Alfonso of Spain, died in the arms of his sister Beatrice today in a little Austrian provincial hospital, bleeding to death from injuries received a few hours earlier in an automobile accident.

Death was officially due to a hemorrhage of the stomach. It was recalled that all of Alfonso's children suffer from haemophilia, a common genetic disease which does not permit blood to clot normally, and which often causes death from minor cuts.

The Little Congress

The Little Congress was organized about 1920 or 1921. Anyone may be a member who is employed in a general capacity of secretary or clerk to a member of the senate or house of representatives. It is primarily a debating institution. Resolutions of current interest in the house of representatives or in the senate, or both, are discussed. The rules of the house are the parliamentary rules of the Little Congress.

Cause of Crimes

In the light of the teachings of psychology, most crimes are greatly influenced by physical or psychological abnormality or by social factors over which the individual may have comparatively little control.

able to present facts as to unsanitary conditions existing in the village as a result of a recent investigation made necessary by complaints filed by interested parties. These disclosures, together with other conditions left no doubt in the minds of unprejudiced citizens as to the necessity for the installation of sanitary sewers now while opportunity of federal assistance is ours for the asking.

At this time a letter received by village officials from the State Department of Health was read.

In view of the fact that a water works system is assured, the State Health department called attention to the fact "that one of the chief uses of a water works system is to provide water to carry away sanitary wastes." "In communities where there is a water works system without a public sewerage system, the residents endeavor to provide private means of sewerage disposal. This results generally in the installation of private 'septic' tanks, the effluents from which are discharged to storm sewers, gutters or local drainage ditches. This causes pollution of water courses in and downstream from the village and may possibly result in damage suits against the village." "A sewerage system will certainly have to be installed anyway shortly after the water system is completed and no federal aid on the sewerage system will be available later."

DECIDED TO VOTE

The last speaker, Emmitt L. Crist village solicitor, followed the project which was started more than a year ago, step by step, to the present time. The original set up did not provide for a vote of the citizens, but the adoption of the 10-mill levy at the last election changed these plans. In order to secure necessary funds to conduct the affairs of the village it was decided to submit the question to the electors and thus bring the project outside the 10-mill levy. This plan also assures a uniform disposition of the costs of the proposed project as the bonds will be general obligation instead of assessment bonds. Each parcel of real estate will bear its share of the cost of the system computed at a rate of $1.70 per $1,000 annually, on a tax duplicate of $1,227,950.

If the bond issue carries the taxes will not be increased, it is claimed. The village rate is now $12.80 per $1,000. The 10-mill levy with the addition of 1.70 mill sewer levy should make our rate $11.70 for $1,000 as against the present rate of $12.80, a decrease of $1.10 including the sewer bond issue.

Among others taking part in the discussion were Peter Johnson, E. F. Schlegel, G. C. Cline, A. B. Courtwright, R. C. Weber, W. H. Plum, A. W. Graham and Ashville's public benefactor, Charles E. Cromley, who has permitted the village's refuse to be poured out over his lands for a period of years and in view of all this generously donated the ground on N. Cromley-st for the water works elevated tank. A civic spirit such as this is a priceless boon to any community.

The cards are on the table; the stake is the health of the village. It's Ashville level. Play safe and watch out for the joker of delay in the hands of the opposition.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAUGHT IN SOUTH

Man Identified as Palmer, Once Thought Karpis, Held in Paducah

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 13.—Two extra guards stood watch here today over a jail cell occupied by a prisoner whom police and detectives say is Joe Palmer, notorious southwest murderer and prison fugitive.

Fingerprints and photographs of the escaped killer and of the prisoner tally in every way, authorities announced. The prisoner's only hint of admission was a remark that "I was due to die in forty-five days when I escaped from the penitentiary."

When caught as he slept in a field with a pistol beside him near railroad tracks here before dawn Saturday, the prisoner gave his name as Blackburn Jackson. Police first identified him as Alvin Karpis, sought in the Edward G. Bremer kidnaping at St. Paul, but federal agents later proved this was erroneous.

Teaching Communism to Unemployed Girls, Maj. Braught Hears

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—Major E. O. Braught, head of the state relief commission, today announced that he would fly to Oberlin immediately to investigate reports that doctrines of communism were being taught in the FERA school for unemployed girls there.

Accompanying Braught will be Charles C. Stillman, of Columbus, the federal representative at the state relief headquarters. Stillman and Braught are expected to make the trip in an Ohio National Guard plane.

Maj. Braught would make no comment on the situation except to say that "it will be fully investigated."

PROFITEERS EYED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The Agricultural Adjustment administration, which has been trying to raise prices, today began sharpening its weapons for action against the food profiteer.

Wallace predicting higher prices as a result of the devastation caused by the prolonged drought, some AAA officials were frankly predicting wide-spread profiteering in some areas.

there was great anxiety for his welfare at the base camp.

There also was anxiety for the tractor party which had been missed on the scheduled radio contact before the good news came.

Admiral Byrd himself assured the base here that all was well.

Taking the key away from Radio Operator Waite, he slowly and uncertainly tapped out the following message:

"Tell my friends not to worry. I'm all right. You fellows have done a splendid job and I want to thank you."

The radio reports were of necessity short, and the expedition base here anxiously awaited further news from the southern outpost.

STRICKEN BY FUMES
It was gathered here, however,

that Admiral Byrd had become ill in June from the fumes of his kerosene stove, and that he was left unable to properly care for himself. Apparently he was not able to give his diet the proper attention, or even to cook his food in the right way.

Furthermore, fearing further harm from the kerosene fumes Admiral Byrd used his stove very little.

Kingston's Fete Begins Thursday

Detailed program of Kingston's celebration of its 100th birthday to be observed August 16, 17 and 18, was announced today.

Civic demonstrations and parades are included in the three-day centennial celebration, which will be graced by the presence of leading dignitaries, including Governor George White, and U. S. Senator Simeon D. Pess.

An address by the governor will mark the final afternoon, Saturday, and will be followed by a political forum at which all candidates are invited to attend. The address is scheduled for 2:30 p. m., following an industrial parade led by the Bainbridge high school band at one o'clock.

JUDGE ORR THERE

Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, there will be a banquet and reception for alumni at the high school. Judge Stanley Orr of Cleveland, a native of Kingston, will preside.

A band concert by the Kingston band, and speech by Dr. Harlow Lindley of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Association are on the program Thursday afternoon. That evening, N. C. Gest of Mechanicsburg, a national authority on antiques will speak in the auditorium of the M. E. church. In this connection, there will be a display of antiques in the community hall.

H. E. Yaple is in charge of the antiques, and persons loaning exhibits are assured of good care being given them as well as prompt return, the committee announces.

PAGEANT PLANNED

"Say, I'd like to know what you were burying in that hole in your back yard last night. You didn't think you'd get caught, did you? But a friend of mine saw you. Now, tell me, if you dare, what were you burying in that hole in your yard?"

The other fellow wasn't so much excited.

"Why," he says, "I was burying one of my chickens, and a half of a ham and some of my buttermilk, and such things."

"Sol," I reckon you're crazy, ain't you? You sound foolish. And I reckon it was my dog that you were planting. Something has happened to Gyp, and I'll dig up that yard of yours till I find out if he's there."

"Well, he's there, all right. All my stuff that I told you about was inside of the dog."

March 22, 1934.
To the Voters of the 11th Congressional District of Ohio:

It is with pleasure that I commend to you the candidacy of State Representative H. B. Welch, for Representative in Congress.

As chairman of the Labor Committee of the Ohio House of Representatives, I am glad to say to you that Mr. Welch has favored, and voted for all legislation that has been for the best interest of labor. He advocated and voted for the Old Age Pension and voted to finance it by voting for an appropriation of $3,000,000.

He took a leading part in trying to pass a bill to require all tax supported institutions to burn Ohio coal. He has voted for all labor bills proposed by the A. F. L. and the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Welch is an experienced legislator and understands present day problems. He is worthy of representing the 11th Congressional district of Ohio.

It is with pleasure that I endorse his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congressman of the 11th Congressional district of Ohio.

Local Police Handicapped

DEPARTMENT of Justice agents have cut another notch in their guns and given municipal police an inferiority complex. They are living nobly up to their reputation of getting their man. The big mistake in the career of "Dangerous John" Dillinger seems to have been the unlawful transportation of a stolen automobile across a state line, the crime for which he was sought by the federal government.

Advocates of a system of federal police to supplant all municipal and state police will use the slaying of Dillinger with good effect as propaganda. Where several states and great cities had failed the federal government had succeeded.

What lesson the desperado latest chapter in the history of crime in America is too early to say. Some may turn to making a living honestly or at least within the law; others may just make it an inviolable rule to stay away from state lines with stolen automobiles.

As for the American public it is now more convinced than ever that if crime is to be put down in the United States the federal government will have to do it. And yet that is unfair to the many law enforcement officers, who are less at fault than the system under which they operate. The department of justice agent gets his man because he takes no time off from the hunt to blow down motorists or shoot stray dogs. You cannot stop to shoot squirrels while hunting wolves.

Reading of the taking of Dillinger, dead or alive, a society outraged by the brutal Lindbergh kidnaping and murder will take new hope that some day the perpetrators of that atrocity will be overtaken by retributive justice.

Time for a Decision

CONDEMNATION of the navy dirigible, Los Angeles, as unsafe for further active service will have the effect of reviving the question of the value of airships as weapons of national defense.

The issue has been debated for years, with no decision recorded.
Supposed experts in such matters are divided in their opinions. Tests have been made, but these have not served to settle the controvery.

With the Los Angeles out of commission, the country has only one dirigible left, the Macon, in active service. It participated in the recent maneuvers of the fleet on the latter's passage from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and a report on its performance now is before naval authorities. Unofficial reports at the time credited the Macon with doing valuable work.

Several million dollars has been expended by the United States in experimenting with dirigibles.
These experiments have been marked by disasters that have taken a number of lives. They are not to be condemned merely because of this. Nearly all progress is purchased at the sacrifice of life.

It seems, though, that the experiments by now should have furnished sufficient reliable data on which to base a decision as to the value of dirigibles in warfare. Before indulging in further costly tests, the government would do well to make a serious and expert study of the results to date, in an effort to determine whether new expenditures and risks would be justified.

College men make good prisoners, says Warden Lawes of Sing Sing. Now, have you any doubt as to the value of an education?

Dixie is prospering. You can buy land at $5 an acre and get $10 an acre for not using it.

Maybe the modern girl can't sew well, but the modern boy couldn't make a good ox cart, either.

Another cause of heart trouble is the idea that a 50-year-old heart can take a 10-year-old's exercise.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS

Diane Carrol, young artist and wealthy orphan, more interested in her work than society, visits the little village of Pine Knob in the Ozarks. Her sunny disposition melts the usual frigidity of the mountaineers towards strangers and they accept her as one of the "home folks"—all except Ann Haskel, whose word is law in Pine Knob. Diane, nevertheless, is fascinated by Ann about whom she has heard conflicting stories of generosity and hardness. The mountain woman seems to be avoiding Diane, but her good-for-nothing stepson, Jeff Todd, follows the artist everywhere. Ann has a son of her own, John Herbert Haskell, whom she sent away years ago, following the death of her first husband. Diane's best friends among the mountaineers are "Uncle Jimmie" and "Aunt Cecilia" Cartwright who have promised to protect her from the annoying Jeff.

CHAPTER VII.

Diane left the Lodge early in the morning, as usual, intending to go down the trail to the Cartwrights'.
But upon reaching the point where the road and path leaves the Wilderness Road she suddenly changed her mind. Uncle Jimmie had told her that the head of Shady Creek was only about two miles from the Lodge and, being in an adventurous mood, she determined to explore.
She was familiar enough with the country by now to make a fairly accurate guess as to where she would find the beginning of the little stream. She might, she thought, if she found nothing she wished to sketch, follow on down the creek and surprise her friends by coming upon them unexpectedly—through the back door, as it were.

The woods were beautiful with the early sunlight slanting through the trees. A cardinal whistled a cheery greeting. A bluejay announced her coming. Squirrels chattered and chattered, and striped chipmunks scampered here and there as if teasing her to play tag with them.

In the vicinity of the Lodge and the Haskell place the growth of timber was rather open, with comparatively little underbrush, and gayly rolling ground sloping gradually down to the river bottoms. But soon, as Diane went on along the mountain-side under the crest of the ridge, the woods became more dense with heavier undergrowth, and the smooth ground was broken by vines and gulches, with cliffs and rock ledges, and high above, on her right, Pine Knob towered into the sky. She was beginning to think that she had come at least two miles when, ahead and a little to her left, she glimpsed the blue sky between the trunks of the trees. A few minutes later she stood on a steep mountain-side, looking down into a deep gorge. As it led away toward the southeast, the gorge widened into a winding valley which her eye could trace for several miles until it was lost in the maze of gray-green hills.

"That," said Diane to herself,
"must be Shady Creek Valley. Uncle Jimmie said the creek empties into Cold River about ten miles below the Lodge. Uncle Jimmie's little farm just lies right down there."

Searching carefully, her eyes discovered a thread of blue smoke curling up through the tree-tops below.
"I am right," she exclaimed, with satisfaction. "That smoke is from the cabin chimney. Shady Creek begins right here in this gorge."

For some time she stood looking down into the leafy depths below, and away over the forest sea to the distant sweep of the hills. Then she started down. As she descended the dense forest closed in about her.
The view of the hills beyond was shut out as if a mighty invisible hand drew close the heavy curtains of green. The trunks of the trees were almost hidden by a thick dank growth of bushes. The rocks and cliffs were hung with tapestries of moss and vines. The ground was carpeted with ferns. From overhead, through the ceiling of leaves and branches, the sunlight sifted down in golden shafts and sprays.
The air was heavy with the smell of the woods. There was no sound—no stirring of life, no movement of tree or bush. The stillness was the solemn stillness of an old cathedral.

The artist paused often to look about and to listen with a feeling of awe and reverence as if she were exploring a sacred place of worship.

Coming to a wide terrace-like bench where the undergrowth was not so heavy and the cathedral effect of tree-trunk columns and arching branches and shafted light was most impressive, she determined to make a sketch. She set up her easel at one end of the little glade, and was soon deep in the joy of her work.

An hour or more passed. Suddenly the artist thought she heard voices, started, she listened intently.
The sound came again—a little clearer. Somewhere in the gloomy depths of the gorge there

"What be you a-doin' hyeah?" Ann Haskell asked harshly.

were people talking. Then, as she listened, she knew there were two people coming up the mountain.
She heard their coming nearer and nearer. They were now in the thick bushes just beyond the farther end of the open glade where she sat.
One of the voices seemed familiar.
The sound ceased. "They have passed on up the mountain," she thought. "There must be a trail."

With a smile of satisfaction that she had not been discovered and her work interrupted, she gave herself again to her painting.

Five minutes later, from close behind her a voice said, harshly:

"What be you a-doin' hyeah?"
Ann Haskell was standing not twenty feet away.

Diane knew instantly that the other voice which had seemed familiar was the voice of Jeff Todd.
She glanced quickly about, but the Haskell woman was alone.

"I asked you what you're a-doin' hyeah?"

The backwoods woman was dressed, as usual, in a coarse wide skirt, man's boots and shirt and black, wide-brimmed hat. Diane, looking at her, involuntarily smiled. Then, at something which she saw in that hard, uncompromising face and in the black eyes which were fixed upon her so intently, she remembered Pappy Giles' story of the night-riders and felt a chill of fear.

"I am only making a sketch of this lovely spot," she faltered.

"I can see you're a-doin' that," returned the mountain woman, shortly.

"You are Mrs. Haskell, aren't you?" Diane ventured, politely.

"You know good an' well I'm Ann Haskell."

"I am Diane Carrol," murmured the younger woman.

"I know that too."

Diane was silent.

"This hyeah's my property."

"Oh, Uncle Jimmie didn't tell

backwoods same's we-uns."

"I hope I am not trespassing," faltered Diane, humbly.

"You're welcome," returned the other. "I got sense to see you ain't a-hurtin' nobody."

She seated herself on the ground and, removing her hat, disclosed a shock of black hair generously streaked with gray.

"Me an' Jeff was jest down yonder
a-huntin' a cow what ain't come in with the rest these two days past. She's a-hidin' out with her calf somewhere in the brush, I reckon. Ain't seed nothin' of a brindle heifer with one horn broke, have ye?"

Was Diane mistaken, or was there a faint touch of mocking humor in the mountain woman's simple question?

"I haven't seen a living thing since I left the Lodge," the artist answered, "except squirrels and chipmunks and birds."

"Uh-huh! You'll allus see plenty of them. I don't 'low no huntin'.
Aim to keep it woodsy long's I live.
They can do's they please after I'm gone. That ornery Bill Fowler done sold his place to them club folks to build the Lodge on 'fore I knewed anything about hit. Bill he pulled out fer Oklahoma, or somewhere, right sudden—soon's he'd closed the deal."

"I know exactly how you feel about it, Mrs. Haskell."

"Think you do, do ye?"

"I'm sure I do. I love the woods, too."

"Know anything about trees?"

"Not much, I fear."

"I 'lowed you wouldn't. You'd think, now, if a body loved the woods they'd jest natchally want to know 'bout trees, wouldn't ye? Most folks air funny that a way—a-lovin' things they don't know nothin' about an' a-hatin' the same way."

Rheumatic Ills Are Serious

Health Expert Urges Good Doctor Be Consulted

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

RHEUMATISM AND arthritis are diseases which continue to confuse a great many persons. The American committee for the control of rheumatism has recently published a booklet called "Primer on Rheumatism".
This describes the various forms of arthritis and rheumatism.

Not all aches and pains of the body should be called "rheumatism". To do so is a common practice and often leads to improper treatment.

The three chief types of rheumatism are known to the medical profession as inflammatory rheumatism, or rheumatic fever; chronic rheumatism, or arthritis; and muscular rheumatism, known as myositis.

May Affect Heart
The first form mentioned is commonly encountered in children and young people. It is serious because the germs may attack the heart and leave the sufferer with some form of heart disease. Ordinarily, rheumatic fever afflicts persons between the ages of five and thirty years. The disease is rarely contracted in warm climates. It usually occurs in the late winter or early spring.

Chronic rheumatism, or arthritis, differs markedly from rheumatic fever. It is not as likely to be found in children or adolescents as in adults. In this form the heart is not involved, but the various joints of the body are affected.

As a rule it is persistent, lasting for years. If not checked it leads to marked pain and interference with normal activity. In severe cases the sufferer actually becomes crippled.

There are many kinds of chronic rheumatism. One form is more common among women. In this type of rheumatism there is considerable stiffness of the involved joint. The cause can often be traced to a focus of infection in diseased tonsils, diseased teeth, or the nasal sinuses.

The sufferer from rheumatism or arthritis must place himself in the hands of a competent physician. The treatment depends entirely upon the form of the affliction. It is essential that every sufferer obtain an abundant of fresh air, nourishing food, rest and relaxation.

See Your Physician
In some instances the application of heat to the joints by the use of hot packs or electrical bakers is beneficial. This brings more blood to the joint, but whatever treatment is given should be applied only under the advice of a physician. If improperly applied, the condition may become aggravated.

In every instance it is advisable that an X-ray picture be taken of the involved joint. This is of great value in determining which form of treatment is likely to be most beneficial. Never neglect arthritis because if you do permanent and disabling deformities may result.

When it comes to making clothes for the larger woman the designer just must know how to flatter. This is a modest house frock but every line in it does something nice for the wearer—makes her look slimmer, or straight lines are those in the heightening front panel. All the rest are either rounded or diag-

FEAR STRIKERS MAY HIT ONION HARVEST

McGUFFEY, Aug. 13—Authorities today feared that striking farm hands in the Scioto marshland onion fields would attempt to block harvesting of the million-dollar crop by major onion growers.

Violence was narrowly averted yesterday when Sheriff Wilbur Mitchell dispersed striking onion

weeders and their families who had met for a picnic in a grove here in defiance of the order of Mayor Godfrey Ott.

Appearing at the picnic in company with Marshal Wilford Wies, the mayor told the officer to disperse the crowd of 200 gathered in the grove. Marshal Wies shouted to the strikers:

ASKED TO DISPERSE

"In the name of the state of Ohio, I am asking you folks to disperse."

The crowd started uttering boos and cat-calls and Mayor Ott called upon Sheriff Mitchell to disperse the strikers. The latter, aided by deputies armed with riot guns, pushed the picketers pell mell into the streets. There was no violence.

Although dispersing the crowd Sheriff Mitchell, whose sympathies are said to be with the strikers, said Mayor Ott's action in having the picnic broken up was "a dirty trick." Mayor Ott previously had ruled that there should be no public gatherings of any kind "until peace and order have been restored."

After driving the strikers into the street, the deputies returned to the grove and broke up the picnic tables which had been made from onion crates.

Some of the major operators affected by the strike started harvesting on a small scale last week and there was no trouble. However, it was feared by authorities that any attempt to harvest the crops on a large-scale basis would cause an outbreak between pickets of the strikers and the farm hands willing to work.

Austria's Royal Family Returning to Throne?

vested in Archduke Otto, extreme right, who assertedly is being groomed for the throne vacated by his father, the late Emperor Karl, by a group of monarchists reportedly planning a coup.

Pine Tree patrol of Girl Scout troop No. 4, met at the home of Marcellette Kerr, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

After playing games and putting on stunts, we served ice cream and cake. Those present were Jane Klingensmith, Phillis Young, Betty Young, Louis Goldsberry and Marcellette Kerr.

Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the basement of the Presbyterian church.

We had our color salute. After games and some practice in signaling, we went to patrol corners. When we came back from patrol corners, we played outside, while some of the girls set the tables.

After dinner we held investiture service during which Marjorie McAllister received her pin. We closed with taps and the radio handclasp.

Questions and Answers

Are bananas a fruit or a vegetable?

When bananas are green-tipped they are a vegetable, and should be cooked. When they are all yellow, they are a fruit or vegetable and may be eaten either raw or cooked. When bananas are brown spotted, they are a sweet fruit, and their flavor is at its best.

Is there any way to keep peeled bananas from discoloring when it is necessary for them to stand a while before serving?

Yes. Bananas and apples darken when exposed to air, and if the fruit is sprinkled with lemon juice it will retain its original clear color. If the fruit is covered with a thin sugar and water syrup, canned or fresh fruit juice, it is able to be used for a sweet dessert or in a fruit salad.

I am planning to serve a fruit cocktail at a breakfast for 25 guests. How many oranges and grapefruit should I use with these as the only ingredients?

In order to obtain the juice that makes the fruit cocktail so tasty, canned grapefruit is recommended. Use 1 dozen large oranges, and 3 number 2 size cans of grapefruit. An attractive garnish that makes the cocktail seem more sparkling is a red maraschino cherry and a sprig of mint leaf for each cup. Cut the oranges in sections, removing all the white membrane, and allow it to chill thoroughly before adding the chilled grapefruit. The mixture will draw enough juice to improve the flavor of the serving. An especially delicious flavor is imparted by the mint, and crushed mint when allowed to soak in the juice while the fruit is chilling, adds zest and refreshment to the cocktail.

It seems that the things that I eat at home always look mushy in the cans. How should the fruits or vegetables be processed to keep them whole and attractive looking?

There are several things to watch in home canning to enable you to have attractive and palatable foods resulting. First of all, select firm fruit, or tomatoes. If your fruit is already soft, canning will not improve the condition of the food. Grade your fruits and vegetables so that those of approximately the same size will be arranged in the same can. Do not over process the cans. Overcooking, if the open kettle method is used, causes a messy looking product, while cold packing or over processing, enables the foods to remain whole because they are handled so little and the application of heat can be fairly well controlled.

Peach Butter For Crisp Toast

The canning season always comes when the thermometers are trying to burst themselves, but by the time the peaches are ripe in great quantities, your ambition should be on the return. Peach butter is a delicious spread and makes any breadstuff taste better especially on brusk, chilly mornings!

Peach Butter

4 qts. peaches 1 tsp. cinnamon
1 C. hot water 1/2 tsp. cloves
1 lb. sugar

Wash the peaches, rub them to remove the fuzz, cut them in half and take out the seeds. Measure the peaches and put them, with the water, into the preserving kettle, bring them to a boil, and cook until they are thoroughly softened. Then press them through a sieve or a colander, return the pulp to the preserving kettle, and add the sugar and the spices. Cook slowly for 1 or 2 hours, or until it has become a rich, dark, clear color. Pour the butter into hot sterilized glasses or crocks, cool and seal.

First Coins and Stamps

The first United States coins were the half-cent and cent minted at Philadelphia in 1793. Coins had been issued by the American colonies long before this, Massachusetts as early as 1652. The first coin issued under authority of the United States was the Continental dollar of 1776, in silver, pewter and brass, the design said to have been made by Benjamin Franklin. Postage stamps were first authorized in this country by act of congress of March 3, 1847, and they were placed on sale in New York on July 1 of that year. Provisional issues of stamps had been made by certain postmasters for some years before this.

IT'S funny how people want to know all about a guy that they're going to give a dime to. Just as soon as somebody asks you for enough to buy a meal, you want to know whether he ever misspent a penny and whether he's "deserving." Why, sure, he's deserving, if he's hungry.

Well, there was a tramp come to a house and asked if he could shovel off the first snowfall, since it wasn't very heavy. The lady looked him over.

"I got to ask you this," she says. "Do you use liquor at all?"

"Now," says the tramp, "I got to know something before I can answer you. Am I to understand that this is an invitation, or just snoopin'?"

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

IT'S funny how people want to know all about a guy that they're going to give a dime to. Just as soon as somebody asks you for enough to buy a meal, you want to know whether he ever misspent a penny and whether he's "deserving." Why, sure, he's deserving, if he's hungry.

Well, there was a tramp come to a house and asked if he could shovel off the first snowfall, since it wasn't very heavy. The lady looked him over.

"I got to ask you this," she says. "Do you use liquor at all?"

"Now," says the tramp, "I got to know something before I can answer you. Am I to understand that this is an invitation, or just snoopin'?"

WELCH For CONGRESS

Nominate a man who can be elected in November, and a man that you know will give Circleville and Pickaway County, a Square Deal.

Take Notice, Democrats. A survey of the 11th Congressional District, shows that Mr. Underwood can not be elected to a SEVENTH TERM. The survey shows that if he is nominated, a Republican will go to Washington at a time when our President needs a Democrat, assuring Democratic support.

The feeling is so pronounced against Mr. Underwood for a SEVENTH TERM, that he can not be elected. It is generally agreed that we are entitled to a New Deal in the office of Congressman.

H. B. Welch is the logical man and the man who can win over Underwood, and the man who can win in November.

Concentrate your vote on Welch, as he is the man to send to Washington to support President Roosevelt. Welch is the leading candidate in every county in the District.

A Survey shows he will carry Hocking and Fairfield by a big vote. He will carry Pickaway by a safe margin. Indications show that he will carry Ross, and that he will get a substantial vote in Perry.

Mr. Welch has been a leader for the New Deal program in the Ohio Legislature and has helped to make the President's program possible in Ohio.

It is agreed that he is the logical man to send to Washington.

Vote for Representative in Congress.

RED BIRDS IN TIE FOR LEAD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13. The Columbus Red Birds today found themselves suddenly elevated into a virtual tie with Minneapolis and Indianapolis for leadership in the American Association pennant chase by virtue of a double victory over Kansas City here yesterday.

The Birds, rallying in the eighth inning, nosed out the Blues 9 to 8 in the opening game of a double-header, then won the second 6 to 2. Nick Culp, slugging outfielder, drove in two home runs for the Birds—his twenty-second and twenty-third of the season.

At Indianapolis, the Indians fought to a 7-6 victory over the Minneapolis Millers in a 10-inning contest.

PERCENTAGE MINOR

In the percentage column, the Millers and the Hoosiers are deadlocked at .5391, with Columbus .0007 of one per cent behind, with .5384. Columbus and Kansas City meet here again today in the third game of their series.

DETROIT, Aug. 13. The hapless Cleveland Indians traveled on to Washington today after the pennant-bound Detroit Tigers added another half-game to their lead over the New York Yankees by stopping the Tribe 6 to 5.

With 30,000 fans cheering them on, the Tigers bounced back twice in yesterday's game to make a clean sweep of the Cleveland series while chalking up their 12th straight victory.

TRIPLE PLAY AIDS

A sensational triple play in the seventh inning with Clevelanders on first and third, checked the Indian attack. Bill Knicker lined a smacking drive straight into the hands of "Third-Baseman" Marvin Owen, who touched the bag, doubling Pearson, and who then threw to first, tripling Galtzer. It was the second triple play the Bengals have registered this season.

Twins seem very light punishment for a crooner.

Golf's New Bobby Jones Loses

Fred Haas

Bobby Jones

Defeating the new Bobby Jones of the fairways in a nip-and-tuck battle, Fred Haas, at left above, is shown after winning the western junior championship at Hinsdale, Ill. After having the lead several times during their final match, the stocky 18-year-old Jones, pictured at right, a Detroit youth, was defeated 3 and 2.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

DEANS LOSE PAIR

IT'S FINALLY HAPPENED—

Those invincible Dean brothers took it on the nose one after the other Sunday afternoon with Chicago Cubs administering the beatings. And it all happened in the St. Louis backyard. The Cubs tightened their grasp on second place by beating the Cardinals twice before a capacity crowd—Speaking of capacity crowds, Boston had one as the Sox divided with the Yankees—it was Babe Ruth's last appearance as a ball player in the Sox Park and he was given a real reception. Another capacity throng saw the Tigers win another from the Cleveland Indians.

Otis Stonerock, Homer Walters and Sep Meiller had a lot of fun chasing foul balls at the Red Bird stadium Sunday afternoon—Still don't believe they got any.

HOUSE IN FINALS

Dr. O. W. House, Williamsport, has won his way to the finals of the Washington C. H. Country club golf tournament—He eliminated Marvin Thornburg, 4 and 2, last week to gain the right to play Walter L. O'Brien who had edged out Charles Jones.

SWANSON A COLONEL?

Don't be surprised if you see Evar Swanson, former Columbus Red Birds star, in a Louisville Colonel uniform next year—Swanson has not been setting the world afire as a Chicago White Soxer, but who has with that club and it is reported he is on the mart—Saturday it was announced the Hose had bought Rip Radcliffe for some cash and two ball players—One may be Swannie.

SCRAMBLED FACTS

Everything Lew Riggs did Sunday was right—He hit safely six times in the two games, handles seven chances perfectly, starting three double plays—The Birds are one percentage point back of first place today with the Millers and Indians tied for the top. The present home stay ends Wednesday after which comes a long road journey that may break the club—High gridders can expect a call pretty soon; Coach Herbert Holz was in town over the weekend; practice may start in two weeks—* Ashville beat Oetz 7-2 to remain in central Ohio scramble.

The attention of local tennis players is called to the fact that the dead line for entries in the South Central Ohio Tennis tournament will be Saturday, August 18. So far entries have been received from Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Athens, Gallipolis, Portersburg, Lancaster, Mansfield, Lancaster, Portsmouth and Bremen.

Out of State entries are coming from Huntington and Charleston, W. Va., from Topeka, Kansas and Rockville, Maryland. Local players are to send their entries to J. C. Wilkins, 140 Madeira Ave., Chillicothe.

KIZER, PURDUE COACH, HEADS ALL-STAR 11

Named in Nation-wide Poll; Hanley and Zupke To Be Assistants.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. — Noble Kizer, Purdue university football coach, will tutor the team of 1933 college stars that will meet the Chicago Bears, 1933 professional champions, at Soldier's field the night of Aug. 31.

Kizer was chosen to coach the all-stars in a nationwide poll, winning by a narrow margin over Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Bob Zupke of Illinois, the dean of Big Ten coaches. Hanley and Zupke will serve as Kizer's assistants.

Kizer learned his football at Notre Dame under the late Knute Rockne, in the days of the four horsemen. In his four years as head coach at Purdue his teams have won 28 out of 34 games, lost 4 and tied 2.

PLEASED WITH RESULTS

Notified of his selection, Kizer declared today:

"I can think of no finer tribute that could be paid to a coach than to have been chosen by the fans of the nation to lead the great group of players ever assembled."

Close behind the three winners in the voting were Jimmy Crowley of Fordham, Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, Harry Kipke of Michigan, and Lou Little of Columbia.

Gems Believed to Have Sex

For many centuries various gems were believed to have sex and the ability to produce offspring. Between 400 B. C. and 1000, there were numerous accounts of geminating diamonds. As late as 1913, the pearl-fishers of Borneo saved every ninth pearl in the native conviction that it had some power to breed others of its kind.—Collier's Weekly.

Music-makers

Among the peoples of the world, ten different parts of the body are used in playing musical instruments. They are the mouth, hips, feet, knees, elbows, chest, wrists, head and nose.

OVERWORKED NERVES

LEIST REUNION HELD SUNDAY AT STOUTSVILLE

Almost 100 descendants of David A. and Mary Leist attended the tenth annual family reunion held Sunday at the Stoutsville Camp Ground.

A basket dinner was enjoyed at noon and in the afternoon the following program was presented:

A song by Doris and Ray Kraft and Fairy Richard, accompanied on the guitar by Fern Richard; Leist chronicle by Miss Rose Leist; selection by a ladies' quartet comprised of Leona Bowman, Dorothy Glick, Viola Glick and Sadie Leist; recitations by Fairy Richard and Ray Kraft; reading, Hazel Bowman and a song by Audrey, Thelma and Elmauden England.

Election of officers for 1935 resulted in Otis Leist being named president; Mrs. Turner Kraft, vice president; and Miss Cleo Bowman, secretary-treasurer.

Enjoying the day were Mr. and Mrs. Pearl England and daughters, Bonnell Frances and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer England and daughters, Audrey, Thelma and Elmauden; Mrs. Max Carpenter and daughter, Patty, of Lancaster; H. H. Leist, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Leist of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Oral Storts of Canal Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leist and children, Gerald and Betty of Cedar Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lape of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Featherly, Miss Rose Leist and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lape and daughter, Catherine of Stoutsville.

Mrs. Viola Glick and daughters, Alma and Dorothy, Miss Sadie Leist, D. C. Leist, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Leist, E. F. Leist, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bowman and children, Leona and Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kline-Smith and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richard and daughter, Fern, Mr. and Mrs. Roy England, Mr. and Mrs. Russell England, Mr. and Mrs. Willard England, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leist and daughter, Alice Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leist and children Donald Jr., and Joyce Arlene, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Leist and sons, Weldon and Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Kraft and children, Ned, Denis, Ray and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Crayton Kraft and daughters, Catherine and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Warner and sons, Melvin and Oakley, James List and daughter, Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bowman and daughter, Cleo, Gerald Majors, Mrs. Katie Heffner, Harvey Winn, Charles Fellers, Ralph Delong, Gorman Davis and Mrs. Daniel Heffner of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb and daughter, Leona Mae and son, Frank Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Helwagen motored to Dayton Sunday, where they were guests of Mr. Helwagen's brother Harry Helwagen, and Mrs. Helwagen and family.

REUNION OF CLASS '21 IS DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

The fourth annual class reunion and banquet of the class of 1921 of Circleville high school was held Saturday evening at the country home of Mrs. Edward Valentine of the Ringgold-pk.

The group assembled at 6:30 o'clock in the spacious dining room and found their places marked with dainty rosette placecards, the inside of which contained the prophecy written in '21 of each of the members present. At the close of the sumptuous banquet these prophecies were read and each person was required to give a reason for not fulfilling his or her prophecy.

Emmitt L. Crist read a telegram from an absent member, Mrs. Hulda Seyfert Kimball, of New York City, also a letter from another member, Mrs. Mary Short Keller, of Evansville, Ind.

Mr. Crist then called upon Melvin Yates, president of the class of '21 who delightfully related the value of and the benefits derived from reunions of this kind.

The honor guest of the evening, Miss Myrtle Cunningham, a former teacher in the high school here, and now located at Elkhart, Ind., impressively responded to the demands for a speech.

An informal social hour followed and gales of laughter echoed throughout the house as members of the group portrayed their individual stunts in the hilarious game of coo-coo.

A recess in the game was called and various members of the class presented a musical program. Marion Sensenbrenner in his inimitable manner sang an intriguing group of Scotch ballads, Harvey Clendenen, of Ashland, Ky., contributed a musical number and Melvin Yates gave a splendid rendition of "Smile Through Your Tears." Hunter Chambers accompanied all the selections.

Two more rounds of coo-coo marked the finale of a most enjoyable and successful reunion under the direction of Mr. Crist, who was assisted by Walter Stout.

The class president, appointed Mrs. Blanche Mutschman assisted by Mrs. Vera Leist to take charge of the reunion for 1935.

Members of the class, who were present for this memorable occasion, include Frances Boecher, Renick, Vera Betz Leist, Margaret Moore, Hunter Chambers, Mary Mader, Russell Palm, Russell Valentine, Walter Jones, M. A. Sensenbrenner, Walter Stout, Blanche Young, Mutschman, Walter Heise, Frances Mason, Emmitt Crist, Melvin Yates, and Byron Frederick of Marysville, and Harvey Clendenen of Ashland, Ky.

THIRTY ENJOY PICNIC OF CHURCH SOCIETY

Thirty members and guests enjoyed the annual picnic of the Young People's society of Christ Lutheran church, Sunday, at Dewey park. The picnic was an all-day affair and a basket dinner was served at noon. Swimming and various games were enjoyed during the afternoon hours.

Donald Beaman, who has been visiting with relatives here the past five weeks has returned to his home in Marietta.

Bath Tub Romance Washed Out

R. C. Dowling

Marjorie Crawford

The "Kidnaping" romance of D. C. (Dapper Danny) Dowling, movie-dance director, and Marjorie Crawford, flying actress, has ended in separation, according to Hollywood dispatches which said the actress would file for divorce. During the hearing last May on charges Dowling kidnaped her and took her to Yuma, Ariz., Marjorie testified Dowling tried to force her to marry him. Dowling, seeking to prove Miss Crawford was a willing companion, once declared, "As God is my judge, I gave you a bath."

TOO TIRED TO PLAY.....and then he Smoked a CAMEL!

Here's the rapid way to bring back energy when tired!

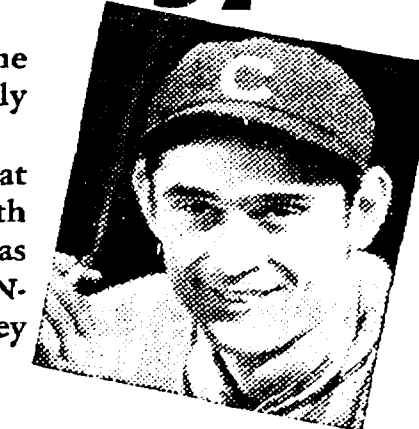

Within a few minutes after smoking a Camel, when weary and dispirited, you will find your vim and vigor definitely increased. First you notice the full, rich flavor of Camels. Then comes a delightful "lift" in energy.

Idea Not New! Thousands of Camel smokers have long known and enjoyed this wholesome effect. And now scientists fully confirm their experiences, as you may have read already.

Camels have a positive "energizing effect." Through it your latent, natural energy is made available. The feeling of well-being and vigor, natural to all, is quickly heightened.

So make Camels your cigarette. Be one of the great army of smokers who are delighted to "get a lift with a Camel." With Camels you can smoke just as many as you want. Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand. They will not ruffle your nerves!

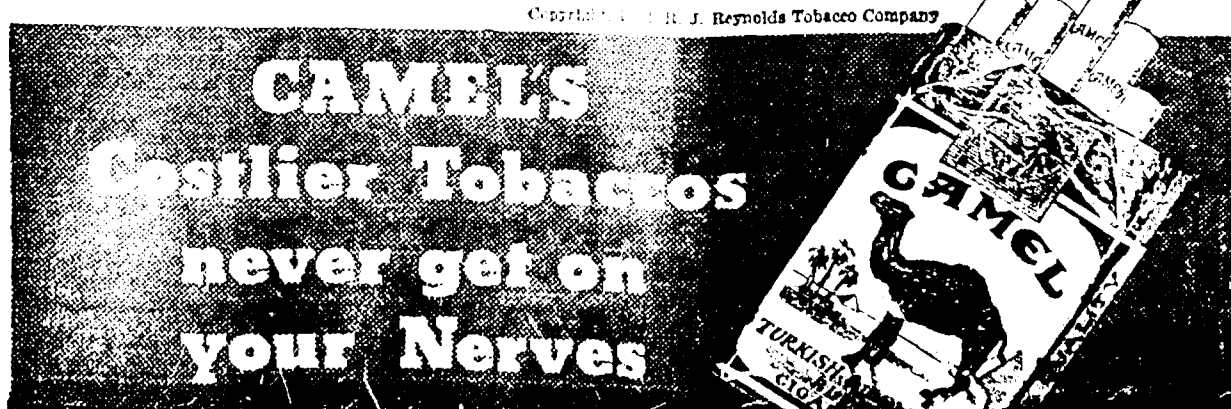

"There's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I smoke a lot. Camels never interfere with my nerves!"
